FRENCH PEACE MOVE RUMORED

HUSBAND HELD AS SUSPECT IN WIFE SLAYING

Drunken Sailor Kisses Dead Spouse Lying In Blood In Parking Lot.

BRUTALLY BEATEN

BULLETIN

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND—William Smith, 36-year-old sailor, was cross-examined sharply by police today to unravel his conflicting stories in connection with the brutal slaying of his wife, Lydia, 32. Mrs. Smith, her face beaten severely, was found early today lying in a parking lot a block from central police station. She died five minutes after being taken to a hospital.

Patrolman George Delf and Hubert O'Donnell, reported that Smith was kneeling beside his wife and kissing her when they arrived. They said he was intoxicated.

"I'll kill the guy that did this to you, honey," they quoted him.

Detective James Hogan said Mrs Smith apparently had been kicked to death. Blood was found on her husband's shoes, cap and coat. A strand of hair was tangled in one of his shoe laces, Hogan said.

In one story, Smith said he and his wife went to a cafe and stayed there until 2:30 a. m. He claimed his wife left ahead of him with another man.

Smith said that he was looking for his wife and her escort when he discovered her unconscious in the parking lot. Later, he said he received a telephone call that she had been beaten, went to the lot and discovered her on the ground.

Smith was a member of the crew of the freighter James Watt until the ship was laid up for the winter two weeks ago.

Attention Draftees! Sunday's News-Journal to Carry Serial Numbers of All Men Who Registered In County

If you don't—and even if you do—this Sunday's News-Journal is going to be of unusual interest to you.

For the Sunday edition will carry the names and numbers of all Richland county men who registered on Oct. 16.

And from that list you will be able to ascertain where you stand in the draft lottery, when the numbers are drawn in Washington next Tuesday.

There are three draft boards in Richland county. In each, every man has been given a serial number.

Thus, when the lottery takes place in Washington on Oct. 29, if No. 450 is the first number drawn, three Richland county men who have that serial number, will be at the top of the draft list.

That, of course, does not mean that every man whose number is 450 will be drafted. The next step will be the issuing of questionnaires by draft boards, followed by classification of all registrants, with regard to dependents, their physical condition, their work, etc.

The drawing of lottery numbers in Washington, however, sets the order in which men will be called for classification.

The News-Journal suggests this procedure in regard to the use of the lists of registrants to be published Sunday:

1. Save the paper and find your name and number.

2. Then watch The News-Journal issues of next Tuesday and Wednesday, which will carry the list of numbers as they are drawn in the lottery. In that way, you will know where you stand in the draft list and when you can expect to be called up for classification.

The News-Journal is printing the list of registrants and their serial numbers as a service to registrants and their families. It is the duty of each registrant to ascertain the serial number that has been assigned to him, and the easiest way to do that will be from The News-Journal lists.

Report Petain Summoned for New Pact Talk

Hurries to Paris to Meet Hitler, Say Swiss Sources; Ultimatum Expected For Britain to Cease Fighting Or Suffer Blitzkrieg.

(By International News Service)

BERNE—As rumors spread that France may launch a move to bring peace to Europe, Marshal Henri Petain, chief of the French government, today was reportedly en route from Vichy to meet Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, presumably in Paris.

The purpose of the Petain-Hitler meeting was reported to be the conclusion of a new Franco-German understanding whereby France will collaborate more closely with the Axis powers in return for an easing of the armistice conditions and the promise of a brighter future in the new European order.

Under the terms of the new agreement, France, it was reported, may place strategic naval and air bases in Africa, including Casablanca and Dakar, at the disposal of the Axis forces for use against Great Britain.

At the same time, Vichy reports indicated France may be asked by Hitler to appeal to Great Britain to agree to a peace settlement on the grounds that Europe is now united under the Axis banner and it will be futile for Britain to continue the war.

If Britain should reject this peace offer, it was reported the Axis powers, using French and Spanish naval and air bases both on the continent and in Africa, will launch a terrific blitzkrieg against Britain, designed to bring her to her knees within a few months.

Spain is also being asked to permit the transit of German mechanized forces through Spanish territory for an attack on Gibraltar.

In addition France is being asked to cede Alsace-Lorraine to Germany and Nice to Italy as well as granting both those powers colonial concessions.

In return for these concessions, which in the case of France are being requested in terms little short of outright demands, Hitler holds out promises of a bright future for both Spain and France in the Axis plan for a "new order" in Europe.

Spain is being promised the return of Gibraltar as well as spoils of war in north Africa.

France is being promised immediate German aid in the economic rehabilitation of the country, wider administrative powers in the occupied areas, generous peace terms at the conclusion of the war and permission for the French government to return to Paris.

The Germans are reported to be contenting themselves with asking for the use of naval and air bases for their own warships and aircraft as France's only military contribution to the Axis cause.

Reports were current here that if Marshal Henri Petain refuses to accede to these modified demands, the Germans may command Vice Premier Pierre Laval to form a new French government under threat of occupying all of France.

Laval is reported to favor acquiescence to the German demands in the belief Great Britain is bound to be defeated before long and France should take advantage of the opportunity to back the winning horse.

However, public opinion in unoccupied France is said to be strongly impressed by the resistance the British have shown.

BATTERY D TO ARRIVE TODAY AT FT. SHELBY

Guardsmen Spend Last Night on Road; Last of Ohio Units Depart For Training.

Mansfield's 63 men and five officers of the National Guard were due to arrive at Fort Shelby, Miss., early this afternoon after riding 159 miles from Macon, Miss., where they were encamped last night.

The last National Guard unit to leave Ohio is the 166th infantry regiment, which carries a tradition for sustained front line fighting in the World war where it was part of the Rainbow division.

It's 75 officers and 1,000 men head southward today, the last of approximately 9,000 Ohioans to go to Camp Shelby for training.

Troops at Camp Shelby are expected to move into permanent quarters by Dec. 1, Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, 37th division commander, said today. He urged relatives and friends who write to the men during the training period to use the army postoffice mark "A. P. O. 37" on all letters.

Basic training, which lasts for 13 weeks, starts with learning how to put up a tent, make a bed, stand at attention and salute, and to quickly move on long marches and to sleep on the ground in pup tents. Training probably will end in extensive maneuvers. This basic training is intended to make men capable of carrying 60-pound packs on 13-mile hikes.

At the same ime officers of the camp will enter schools of instruction in the use of heavy weapons.

The army is pushing its program two weeks ahead of schedule. One officer, eplaining the speed-up in plans, said the guardsmen, pouring in daily from clerical jobs and factories, should be put in 'peak trim' as quickly as possible.

"Peak trim" he explained, meant being fit for combat with a seasoned, trained enemy.

Sporting New Senior High Band Uniforms

DRAFTEES HUNT AND HUNT FOR SERIAL NUMBERS

They Find It's a Big Task To Scan Lists; Some Unable To Locate Names.

Hundreds of Richland county young men who registered Oct. 16 under the selective service act are finding that locating their registration numbers is worse than solving a Chinese puzzle.

For the past three days they have been scanning registration sheets posted in the Memorial building, courthouse and American Legion home. Some of them were lucky and found their numbers early. Others are still looking.

A number of men who work during the day outside Mansfield and have only the noon hour and a short time in the evening to hunt their numbers, have gone to the courthouse two or three times without finding them. Numbers of registrants outside Mansfield and Madison township are posted in the hallway of the third floor of the courthouse.

More than 3,000 names are posted at each of the draft board headquarters. Since the names are not listed alphabetically, a registrant might have to look at every name on the lists before finding his.

The News-Journal will save the men a trip to Mansfield by publishing the entire list of names and registration numbers in the next Sunday issue.

While the county draft boards marked time today until the big drawing in Washington next Tuesday, national draft headquarters posted its policies clarifying rights of potential draftees to debt "moratoriums."

The chief provision under the law, it was pointed out, comprised the wide discretionary power given to all courts to stay enforcement of judgments, or even to prevent filing of suits for judgments. Four other provisions also were listed as follows:

1. No default judgment can be obtained against any man of military age unless the court is first

Roosevelt Denies Secret Pacts; Willkie Hits 'Forgotten Promises'

Hurls 'Lie' at Republicans In Philadelphia Address

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—As an old campaigner who loves "a good fight," President Roosevelt swung today into the last stages of his re-election drive with this declaration in support of his "most solemn assurance" that America has no secret pacts with any nation:

"It is for peace I have labored and it is for peace that I shall labor all the days of my life."

Mr. Roosevelt came back to the capital—to draft more speeches—after tabulating for a cheering audience in Philadelphia and the nation by radio last night what he termed the "more fantastic misstatements of this campaign."

In "repeating, and repeating, and repeating falsehoods," he said, his opposition has imported "certain techniques of propaganda, created and developed in dictator countries."

Not once in his address in Philadelphia's convention hall did Mr. Roosevelt utter Wendell L. Willkie's name.

But among the "outrageous" and "unpardonable" flasifications which he attributed to partisans and Republican leaders were charged that:

His administration "wishes

Charges Roosevelt Likely to Send Troops Abroad.

(By Associated Press)

HARBORCREEK, Pa.—Wendell L. Willkie asserted today that if President Roosevelt did not remember his promises of today longer than he did his pledges in 1932 he feared "our boys" would soon be put on transports bound for combat in war.

In a broadcast reply to Mr. Roosevelt's campaign address in Philadelphia last night, the Republican presidential candidate also charged that the "third term candidate" had evaded the issues of the 1940 campaign and that the president's speech was like the country's military defense system—"either obsolete or on order."

He said:

"Last night, the third-term candidate, referring to the Democratic platform of 1940, quoted this language from that platform:

"'We will not participate in foreign wars and we will not send our army, naval or air forces to fight in foreign lands outside of the Americas except in cases of attack.'

"I hope, I hope sincerely, that

WARNING: British See New Dangers for France, Spain

(By United Press)

LONDON—Authoritative British sources aimed the double-barreled warning at France and Spain today that their active co-operation with Germany and Italy would mean for France encouragement of the Free France movement in her empire and for Spain the loss of essential supplies which now go through the British blockade.

No doubt was felt here that Adolf Hitler in his talks with Pierre Laval, French vice premier, and Generalissimo Francisco Franco, the Spanish leader, had tried to win France and Spain to active participation in the war on the side of the Axis powers.

It was felt that a new blow by Germany and Italy against Great Britain was being attempted. It was not taken for granted that the attempt would succeed, whatever France and Spain might do.

"It should not be taken for granted," an authoritative spokesman said, "that Germany's blandishments and threats are likely to be too readily accepted.

"It may strike Vichy that the adoption of Hitler's proposals would cause considerable alarm in the French empire and give what from the Vichy viewpoint would be dangerous stimulus to the Free France movement.

"As regards Spain there are always hard facts which Spaniards must take into account—the possible loss of economic advantages to Spain resulting from the abandonment of a non-involvement policy.

CALLS NEW DEAL 'UN-AMERICAN'

Herbert Says It Takes U. S. To Brink of War, Then Puts Men To Work on Munitions.

Speaking at a party rally last night at Mansfield Republican headquarters, Paul M. Herbert, Ohio's lieutenant governor, accused the New Deal of trying to solve the unemployment problem "the un-American way" by taking the country "to the brink of war and putting men to work building weapons to take human lives."

Herbert spoke before approximately 900 persons at one of the major G. O. P. rallies of the campaign. Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, Republican candidate for U. S. senator, who was scheduled to speak on the same program, was unable to be here. Party leaders said they would attempt to have him here for a talk next week.

4-Year-Old Child Found Huddled In Rocks on Mountain

SHENANDOAH, Pa.—(AP)—Lost for more than 50 hours on a densely wooded mountainside, four-year-old Rudy Kunchnick, jr., was in a hospital today for treatment of his frail limbs swollen from exposure to sub-freezing temperatures.

Found yesterday huddled between two rocks, the youngster still had enough strength to whisper "I'm sorry Mama" and hold out his arms when rescuers brought him home.

An Oneida housewife, Mrs. John Barna, traced feeble cries to dense underbrush where the youngster had one leg wedged fast under a rock. "I couldn't believe my ears," she said.

The child wandered away from his home in nearby Shepston at 11 a. m. Monday.

Dr. T. F. Harris of the hospital staff said the child's condition was not serious.

Know That Christmas Is Just 2 Months Off? Postoffice Does

While the sun was shining and Mansfielders were happily enjoying balmy breezes today, postoffice officials were gloomily preparing for their annual Christmas rush "headache."

Recollecting Christmas rushes of former years, Postmaster H. E. Homberger sighed heavily this morning when he opened his official mail from Washington to find his first instructions from Postmaster General Frank C. Walker concerning the holiday rush.

Dealing chiefly with the problem of last-minute mailing of parcels, the official bulletin urged that postmasters do everything within their power to get people to mail their packages early to avoid the annual jam-up.

Even postoffice employes coming in contact with the public were asked by the postmaster general to stress the mailing of all packages early and prevent the difficulties encountered by postoffices during the Christmas season.

The bulletin also asked that large advertisers in the city be requested to withhold heavy mailings of catalogs, calendars, and other bulky literature during the period from December 7 to Jan. 1.

BRITISH BOMBS DROP ON BERLIN

BERLIN—(NS)—British bombers attempted a heavy attack against Berlin during the night and dropped bombs which caused slight damage and injured several persons, an official announcement said today.

The statement said only a few of the attacking planes succeeded in reaching the Berlin area.

STABS: German Air Attacks Restricted to Rural Areas

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Heavy formations of German planes made short, repeated stabs at a London shrouded in thick, chill weather today but succeeded only in dropping bombs in rural areas.

Observers reported large groups of raiders crossed the southeast coast early in the afternoon, most of them obscured by clouds, and heading in the direction of London.

A few moments later a flight of nine fighter planes, acting as a rear guard was glimpsed as it scooted through low clouds.

The approach of these planes caused a second air raid alert of the day in London, but it, like the first, was brief. No gunfire or bomb explosions were heard in London during the first alert.

German planes were reported also to have flown over the vicinity of Liverpool and a west coast town.

Five persons were killed by a bomb which wrecked a cottage in a small village near London last night. An 18-month-old baby was found alive on top of the debris.

October Marriage Told Last Evening At Doherty Party

At the supper party of the Doherty club of the Ohio Public Service company which was held last night at the home of Mrs. Oscar Frantz, 119 South Diamond street, the announcement of the marriage of Miss Mary White and Bernard Rachel on Oct. 12 was made.

Guests were told of the marriage by streamers of colored paper which showered from the chandelier to a pumpkin centerpiece. These, pieced together, told of the wedding.

Rummy was played during the evening with prizes going to Mrs. Dorothy Strachen, Mrs. LaVada Dalton and the honoree. The other two winners also presented the guest of honor with their prizes, and the club gave her a lamp.

Arrangements were in charge of the hostess assisted by Mrs. Marion Day and Mrs. George Lehr.

Buckeyes to Unleash New Passing Attack Saturday

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Ohio State university's Buckeye football team will entrain for Ithaca, N. Y., tonight where on Saturday afternoon it will test the strength of Cornell's undefeated and untied Big Red.

* * *

Defeated in their last two times out by Northwestern and Minnesota, the Buckeyes nevertheless prepared to leave their home lot confident of avenging last year's 23-14 defeat at the hands of the Easterners.

* * *

However, Cornell, undefeated in 11 starts, is heavily favored to cut down the Bucks. Eighteen men who saw action against Ohio State at Columbus last fall are ready for duty in the Big Red lineup Saturday. This group includes four ends, three tackles, three guards, a center and seven backs. All except one are seniors.

The lone change in the Ohio lineup from the two previous games will be the re-appearance of Jimmy Strausbaugh, regular halfback, at his old position opposite Tom Kinkade, blocking back. Strausbaugh has seen only slight service this season, having suffered an ankle injury a week before the opening game against Pittsburgh.

However, with Dick Fisher out of the Cornell game with a severe shoulder injury sustained in the Minnesota tilt, Strausbaugh will have to handle most of the play at the left halfback post throughout the 60 minutes.

Coach Francis Schmidt in a last-minute strategy session promised the Easterners "something new" in the aerial game. With Don Scott on hand to pitch and big Charlie Anderson, rugged colored end, to catch, the Buckeyes may pull the year's biggest surprise thus far.

Mistakes Cost Minnesota Four Grid Contests

Gophers Determined To Make Up For Errors Against Rivals.

By JAY VESSELS

Now the Golden Gophers are getting back those ball games and they have already caught up with two clubs profiting from the 1939 misques.

Nebraska fooled Bernie Bierman's boys last fall with a simple old fashioned reverse that got a fourth down score after everything else had failed. The final count was 6 to 0. Minnesota got the winning 13 to 7 margin this year on a one play forward pass from Bruce Smith to co-Captain Bill Johnson.

Ohio State won 23 to 20 last year because a Minnesota player was caught holding. That mistake came on a play that would have given the Gophers a first down on the Buckeye three yard line.

Set back fifteen yards, Minnesota gambled on a field goal bid for a tie and lost. At Columbus last Saturday, Minnesota evened the score because touchdown plays worked for Bruce Smith.

Coming up for important notice this Saturday is another one of the beneficiaries of the 1939 Minnesota errors. The team is Iowa.

The Hawkeyes beat Minnesota last year because a player in the Gophers' secondary permitted Bill Green to get behind him to catch Nile Kinnick's touchdown pass.

Bierman's 1940 squad this time would settle for a one play winner. It wouldn't mind dusting off the winner that set back Washington in this year's opener—that 98-yard dash by Halfback George Franck.

Still there will be Northwestern, the last of the 1939 one-play benefit brigade. Bill De Correvont got away from the Minnesota safety man to count the winner. And the mighty man will be around when the rampaging Gophers try to balance up with the Wildcats November 2.

WE'LL BE OUT THERE CHEERING

WHILE YOU'RE IN THERE PITCHING

Sure, Massillon has a great team. So what?

Yeah, we know! They've won 29 games in a row — haven't lost a game since the Civil War. So What?

The last game they didn't win, was the game they didn't win from Mansfield, wasn't it? Remember? We held a great Massillon team to a tie in 1937, didn't we? Underdogs, then, too, weren't we?

How do you know we can't do it again?

We know one thing—our boys will be in there pitching! Whatever Massillon has—great backs, a fast, husky line, 8 or 9 coaches—Mansfield has the heart!

That's why our Mansfield team is a good team; they may lose—mebbe to Massillon, mebbe to other teams—but they'll be in there fighting!

That's why we're proud of you Tygers — that's why we'll be out there Friday night, cheering for you while you're in there pitching!

Tygers Determined to Hold Massillon

Team Ready For Foe

By CHARLES MARTIN, News-Journal Sports Editor.

THERE is one thought running through the minds of the Mansfield high Tygers today.

It is the defeat the powerful Massillon team hung on the Tyger record last season and the 1940 aggregation is out to make amends when the clubs tangle at 8 p. m. Friday at Stadium field.

* * *

With a week of rest behind them and every member in excellent physical shape, the Tygers are out to prove that last season's drubbing will not be repeated.

* * *

Coach Paul Snyder and Vern Hoffman, backfield coach, have been working at full speed this week in an effort to establish a defense to halt the rampaging Tigers.

Unbeaten in 29 contests, the Massillon team, out to defend its state title, will send a heavy forward wall and a small, but fast backfield against Mansfield.

Mansfield is not expected to turn back the invaders, but Snyder thinks his proteges will give Massillon a tough battle.

This season's team is light, but it makes up for that disadvantage with speed and fight. If Snyder can uncover the spark to set the Tyger running attack into full motion Massillon may have more to handle than expected.

The line facing the Tygers Friday night under the arcs averages 177 pounds, approximately 17 per man heavier than Mansfield's athletes.

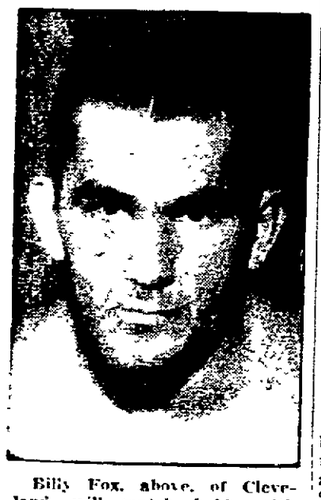
Gene Henderson, left tackle, Jim Russell, right guard, and Horace Gillom are the big men on the forward wall. Henderson weighs 198, Russell 192, and Gillom 190.

* * *

Massillon's backfield, however, is not much heavier than the Tygers. The backs average 152, and Ray Getz, veteran halfback, is the biggest lad, tipping the Toledos at 159.

Wrestles Here



Billy Fox, above, of Cleveland, will match holds with Buck Weaver in the 30-minute preliminary bout on Promoter Bob Steele's weekly wrestling show at the Dechla-Soprana Athletic club at 8:30 p. m. Monday. In the top match Monday, Maruce Chappelle tangles with Walter Miller.

Several Changes Planned for Y.M.C.A. Basketball Leagues

TENTATIVE plans for the 1940-41 basketball season were set up by the physical department of the Y. M. C. A. at a meeting held recently, according to an announcement made today by Donald D. Clark, physical director.

Several major changes were made in the organization of the leagues with the season opening on Dec. 10.

* * *

Chairman Charles Lodge of the physical committee of the Y. M. C. A. appointed Robert Jones, Sidney Appleseed to plan the coming basketball season which will consist of two major leagues.

The program for the girls for the Church league as usual will be known as the Junior league and Senior league and a Commercial basketball league.

The Junior league will be made up of boys thirteen years to sixteen years of age inclusive. The league was formerly called the Church C. league and played on Saturday afternoon. The league will continue to play on the same day.

The Senior league will consist of players 20 years of age and under and this league was formerly called the Church B league.

The committee plans call for the suspension of the former Church A league for young men and will supplant in its place the Commercial league.

Players participating in the Commercial league will be barred from taking part in the City league and those players who participated in the City league will be barred from taking part in the newly created Commercial league. The ruling was put into effect by the commission to accommodate the large number of players in the city of Mansfield.

All teams participating in the Commercial circuit must work or reside in the city of Mansfield.

* * *

All three leagues will be under the supervision of the basketball commission headed by Davis, and will consist of not more than eight teams in each league.

The leagues will play a split season with the winners of the first round of play to play the winners of the second round to decide the championship of their respective league.

Harmon Cheers Girl Friend

Selects Penn

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK—(INS)—The pigskin parade heads down the stretch of the season on the coming weekend with one gala attraction transcending all else in public appeal, and bringing on this question for the further befuddlement of those who would pick the winners.

* * *

Will it be Michigan or Penn?

* * *

We are going to go along with Penn and Francis Reagan over the Michiganders and Tom Harmon in a game that may produce many or few touchdowns and an abundance of theatrical football stemming from the efforts of the two All-Americans. Among other things, Harmon is the nation's leading scorer on the big time with 79 points, and Reagan is in second place with 61.

On paper, the game is about as close to a toss-up as any to be found on the day's schedule, with Penn seemingly boasting of a slight edge in punch against Michigan's slim margin on the defense and psychological advantage in playing at Ann Arbor. Anyhow, we're stringing along with Penn, and with that move on to these headliners:

EAST

Cornell over Ohio State, Navy over Yale, Holy Cross over Brown, Colgate over Mississippi college, Princeton over Rutgers, Dartmouth over Harvard, Penn State over Temple, Amherst over Wesleyan, Fordham over St. Mary's, Columbia over Syracuse, Army over Lafayette, Georgetown over New York university, Boston college over St. Anselm's in a romp, and, Friday night, Duquesne over Manhattan and West Virginia over George Washington. We also like Villanova over Detroit and St. Mary's of Texas over Long Island in Sunday games.

Of the foregoing, Ohio State, St. Mary's of California and Lafayette seem to have the best chance to score upsets.

MID-WEST

With Michigan meeting Penn out of the conference, Big Ten attention will be centered on Northwestern's attempt to retain leadership in a game with Indiana and Minnesota's clash with Iowa.

You have to go along with Northwestern and Minnesota to preserve their perfect records. And it looks like Notre Dame over Illinois easily and Purdue over Wisconsin in other headliners.

In the Big Six, they will virtually settle the conference race in the annual tussle between Nebraska and Missouri, with the former herewith timidly selected, along with Kansas State over Kansas in a virtual toss-up, Oklahoma over Iowa State, and Michigan State over Santa Clara.

SOUTH

Mississippi, only major eleven to have won five straight games, won't improve on its position at the head of the Southeastern conference by a slim margin this week, but probably will increase its number of victories by beating Arkansas. In other major games in that circuit, Tennessee figures to swamp Florida, Georgia Tech should take Auburn, Georgia should top Kentucky and Vanderbilt ought to nose out Louisiana State.

Missippi State will go over into the Southern conference to play and probably beat North Carolina State and Tulane will do the same thing against North Carolina.

Clemson, Southern loop leader, should turn back South Carolina, and Duke figures over Wake Forest and Washington and Lee over V. P. I. in other major attractions in that loop.

SOUTHWEST

The unbeaten Texas Aggies will add another victory to their string against Baylor, Texas will maintain similar pace against Rice, Texas Christian should win handily from Tulsa, while Arkansas will play, and probably lose to Mississippi.

PACIFIC COAST

Stanford will be tested by Souther. California but should win and we like Washington over California, Oregon State over U. C. L. A., Washington State over Oregon, Montana over Gonzaga and Utah State over Idaho.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN SECTOR

Colorado over Wyoming and Denver over Utah in the big games. Victories will leave Colorado and Denver deadlocked for the Big Seven lead.

HARVARD GETS WORKOUT

CAMBRIDGE Mass. — (INS) — Coach Dick Harlow was overlooking no bets today in preparing the Harvard varsity for Dartmouth Saturday. Thirty minutes against the bags, 20 minutes on defensive scrimmage and ten on signal drills comprised the workout schedule.

Simpson Whips Galion Team

Junior High Gridders Mark Up 6 to 0 Victory.

The John Simpson Junior high school football team chalked up its third victory of the season yesterday afternoon in defeating the Galion high school reserves 6 to 0 in a contest played at Stadium field.

Simpson's lone touchdown came as the result of a 55-yard run by Carl Schafer. Brooks' kick for extra point was low. Simpson threatened a few plays earlier when Joe Parry ran 40 yards on a reverse to Galion's five-yard stripe, but the ball was lost on a fumble.

BARONS PLAY TONIGHT

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Again the favorites to capture the American league title, the Cleveland Barons make their season's debut at the Arena tonight in the second of a three-game exhibition series against the Pittsburgh Hornets. The Barons whipped the Hornets last night at Windsor, 8 to 4.

Coach Bill Query's Whippets Have Lost Four Contests In Three Years.

By JOHN GRAY

SHELBY — Undefeated on the gridiron this season so far, Shelby high school Whippets have compiled an unusual record in football since they started a winning streak back in 1937.

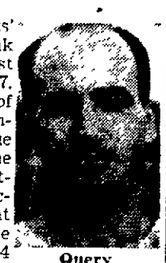
Playing 26 games during this period, Shelby has won 20, lost four and tied two. Games were lost to Mansfield, Crestline, Marion and Ashland.

* * *

This will be the fourth year for Coach William Query. Out of the four years, Shelby tied Galion in 1938 for the league championship, was in second place last year and is roaring toward an undisputed title this season.

* * *

Teams coached by Query have relied mostly on speed and brains rather than weight and power. All of the teams have been in good condition and have worn the opposition down to score points late in the contest.



Query

The Whippets' winning streak started against Galion in 1937. Galion, winner of the North Central Ohio league that year, came to Shelby expecting an easy victory, but went home on the short end of a 24 to 12 score. That same year Shelby defeated an unbeaten Tiffin Calvert team 13 to 7 to spring another upset.

Probably the best team ever to carry the Scarlet and Gray colors reported to Coach Query for the 1938 season. This team went through the season with only one blemish on the record.

Galion, also undefeated in that season's play, tied the Whippets in the last game 13 to 13 to share the conference championship. Shelby won eight games and tied one that season which saw all-North Central Ohio league Fullback Harold Bliss on the squad.

Losing Bliss last year, Shelby fans expected a poor season, but Coach Query again reached into the hat and brought the Whippets into second place in the league. Shelby won its first game of the season in 1939 to extend its winning streak from the previous two years to 12 consecutive games without a loss.

Ashland beat that team by one point, 7 to 6, ending Shelby's record at 13 consecutive victories. This included ties with Galion and Willard.

This year Shelby is undefeated in six games. The Whippets will seek their seventh consecutive win at 8 p. m. Friday when they meet the Harding Presidents at Marion.

* * *

The Whippets are favored over the Marion eleven which lost a game last week to Bucyrus 16 to 6 for its first loss in 12 games. Shelby will be out for revenge for a 13 to 0 trimming suffered in 1939.

* * *

Marion is the defending league champion, but is in a second-place tie with Mt. Vernon. Both have won one game and lost one.

2 Clubs Are Still Leading

Cornell, Pennsylvania Head List of College Teams For Second Week.

By GAIL FOWLER

SEATTLE —(AP)— Those Giants of the east—Cornell and Pennsylvania — dominate this week's batch of statistics as compiled by the American football statistical bureau, and the welter of figures also indicate some interesting conclusions.

* * *

For the second straight week Cornell is tops in total offense —gains both rushing and passing—with a 466.7 yard average per game. The Ithacans gained 584 yards on the ground and 816 in the air for 1,400 yards in the three games.

* * *

For the third straight week Cornell was the nation's "passingest" team, averaging 272 yards via the air lanes.

Penn meanwhile boomed into second place in total offense with a 400-yard per game average and, the statistics say in the country's best rushing outfit with a 303.7 average per game.

Also, Penn for the second straight week boasted the best defense against rushing. Its opposition, while not too robust, grossed 147 yards against the unquaking Quaker forwards and lost 121 yards for the microscopic net yield of 26 yards, or an average per game of only 8.7 yards.

Cornell's Saturday foe, Ohio State the 1939 total offense leader, has been playing tougher clubs and doesn't figure among the offensive leaders, its 252 yard per game average being well under the accomplishments of the first five. But the Ohio Staters rank fifth in pass defense, holding the enemy aerials to an average of only 34 8 per game.

The leaders, statistically were:

Total offense — After Cornell and Penn came Detroit, 389.5 yards average per game; Lafayette, 387.5, and Arizona, 366.

Rushing offense — Lafayette, which whacked the likes of Ursinus, N. Y. U., Muhlenberg and Gettysburg, rolled up 1,408 yards for a 367 average per game. Penn's 303.7 average is second, followed by Brown, 299; Detroit, 287 and Michigan 276.

Passing offense—Cornell is way in front at 272; Princeton, which gained more than 300 yards in the skies against Penn last week, is second at 185.7; Marquette is third with 181.3, followed by the lofty-minded Yales, 148.3.

Total defense—Missisippi State, with a game missing, has yielded an average of 67.7 yards per game. Then comes Navy, 72.3; Penn State, 81.3; San Jose State, 98.2 in six games, and Michigan, 98.5.

Rushing defense — After Penn again comes Penn State, 18.3; Texas A. & M., 23.5; Clemson, 37.3, and Navy 41.3.

* * *

Pass defense — Mississippi State, still one game shy, 17.0; Fordham, 23.0; Utah State, 30.3; Navy, 31.3, and Ohio State, 34.8.

* * *

Punting — Clemson, Texas Mines, Holy Cross, Oklahoma and Kentucky.

Eagles Bantamweights Face Akron Club Sunday.

The Eagles lodge bantamweight football team will make its third home appearance of the season Sunday afternoon when it plays host to the Akron Riggs Electric bantams at 2 p. m. at the Richland county fairground. Madison at Full Strength For Contest Tonight

Veteran Center Returns as Rams Go After First Win Against Marion.

By BOB FLOHR

WITH one of their regulars ready to return to the lineup after being out for the past few weeks due to illness, the Madison high school Rams will return to the gridiron wars tonight at full strength in quest of their first victory of the season.

Madison plays host to Marion St. Mary's at 8 p. m. under the floodlights at the Madison field. Tonight's tilt will be the seventh of the season for the Rams.

* * *

Return of Bill Folmer, varsity center, who has been ill, to the Rams' lineup will bring about two changes and is expected to add strength to the line, which has been considerably weak this season.

* * *

Coach Al Fendrick will put Folmer back at center, and Jack Spriesterbach, who has been at the pivot post, will be shifted to his regular position at tackle.

* * *

The Irish will bring a strong team here for the Madison encounter, and are expected to give the Rams plenty of trouble.

* * *

Paced by Tom Schuler, Marion earlier in the season handed Crestline its first setback in ten contests to drop that team from the list of undefeated and untied Ohio scholastic elevens.

LAST NIGHT'S BOWLING SCORES

* * *

Walter bowled in two leagues last night at the Meder Recreation alleys and set the individual pace in both circuits.

* * *

He collected a nifty 635, 653 in the Westinghouse C league and then pounded out a 647 in the City Class A league. In hitting his big total Walter had games of 205, 225 and 223.

Dale Cleckner trailed Fensch with a 634, which included games of 230 and 233. Cleckner bowled with the Bissman company team in the Class A circuit.

Fritz Vogel, John Perrine and Ed 'Babe' Meder were the only other keglers to break 600. Vogel had 608, Perrine 605 and Meder 602.

Martin To See Buddies

Ex-Cardinal Star Will Find Former Teammates On West Coast Clubs.

By ROBERT MYERS

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— John L. (Pepper) Martin, late of the St. Louis Cardinals, should feel right at home when he takes up quarters in the Pacific Coast league next spring.

* * *

For the great Pepper, once the ringtailed leader of the noisiest, wildest collection of ball players Frankie Frisch will ever have to suffer with, will find no less than six of his old cronies of the once celebrated Gas House Gang scattered along the shores of the Pacific.

* * *

Ripper Collins and Big Bob Weiland with Los Angeles, Brusie Ogrodowski catching for Sacramento, "Beau Brummel Bill" Walker pitching for Seattle, Jack Rothrock at Hollywood and young Ray Harrell with Portland.

Most of these distinguished gentlemen, or gents, played with Pepper—and the patience of the Messrs. Frisch, Rickey and Sam Breadon—back in 1934-35 and thereabouts.

Those were the years the original Gas House Gang really flourished, when a clubhouse battle was a minor incident, when off the field didoes kept the nation laughing and Branch Rickey smoking, when constant turmoil was the normal state.

Those were the years, too, when the Dean boys pitched the Cards to glory and a world's championship, when Pepper had his mudcat band and went in for midget auto racing and prizefighters—and poor Frisch got grayer and grayer.

* * *

The present has overlapped the past, however, and now some of the old Gas House Guard have reached the stepping off, or twilight stage, of their careers.

* * *

There is a possibility that winter trade winds may blow them elsewhere before the days of spring and Pepper arrive in California. But here is a fervent wish that there are enough left to start a mild commotion in this league when the old Wild Horse gets here.

PROFIT TAKERS STEM RISE OF STEEL ISSUES

Traders Continue To Keep Accounts Liquid For War Developments.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK -- Profit taking stemmed the rise of steels and other recent industrial favorites in today's stock market.

While scattered leaders managed to tack on minor advances at a fairly active start, prices generally inclined to give ground near the second hour. Dealings slowed on the slight reversal.

Brokers noted a dearth of strong speculative incentives in the news. Many traders, while more hopeful for domestic politics, were disposed to keep accounts liquid pending clarification of confusing European Axis war moves.

Interpreted as constructive marketwise was the survey of Dun & Bradstreet disclosing the country's bank clearings in the past week moved up briskly to top the totals for both the previous week and the comparable period a year ago.

Studied also was the summary of the Engineering News-Record indicating heavy engineering construction awards for the week ended Tuesday were 47 per cent under the record-breaking aggregate of the preceding week but 98 per cent ahead of the like 1939 period.

SECRET PACTS DENIED BY FDR

Republicans Charged With Repeated Falsehoods By President.

to lead this country into war;" that it has failed to make a job for even a single man; that the industrial system is prostrate, and that business is stifled and unable to make a profit.

Truthful campaign discussion of public issues is essential to the American form of government, Mr. Roosevelt asserted.

"But it is entirely a different thing," he added, "for any party or any candidate to state, for example, that the president of the United States telephoned Mussolini and Hitler to sell Czechoslovakia down the river; or that the unfortunate unemployed of the nation are going to be driven into concentration camps; or that the social security funds of the nation will not be in existence when the workers of today become old enough to apply for them; or that the election of the present government means the end of American democracy within four years.

"I think they know, and I know we know, that all of these statements are false."

He spoke to a throng that took every one of the 14,500 seats in the auditorium, cheered him for six and a half minutes before he could begin his address, and interrupted 91 times with applause, laughter, and occasional boos when he struck heavily at the opposition.

The ovation accorded the chief executive at the hall was a climax to a day in which he had appeared before tens of thousands of people at Wilmington, Del., and on a 40-mile motor tour to national defense plants in Philadelphia and Camden, N. J.

Standing under spotlights knifing through a curtain of tobacco smoke, Mr. Roosevelt was alternately sarcastic, droll, grim and emphatic as he delivered his address. Afterward he left for Washington, where he speaks by telephone late this afternoon to the New York Herald Tribune forum in New York.

An "outrageously false charge" that the administration wants to bring the nation into war, he said at Philadelphia, had been "Made to strike horror into the hearts of our citizens."

"That charge is contrary to every fact, every purpose of the past eight years," he said.

"To Republicans and Democrats, to every man, woman and child in the nation I say—your president and your great secretary of state are following the road to peace."

"It is for peace I have labored," Mr. Roosevelt declared, "and it is for peace that I shall labor all the days of my life."

Falsifications are being spread, he charged, to fill the minds and hearts of Americans with fear based on doubts of one another, their government and the purposes of their democracy.

He described as the "worst bombshell of fear" loosed by Republican leaders an accusation that the government had entered into secret agreements with foreign nations.

"I give you, and the people of this country this most solemn assurance: There is no secret treaty, no secret obligation, no secret commitment, no secret understanding in any shape or form, direct or indirect, with any other government, or any other nation in any part of the world, to involve this nation in any war or for any other purpose."

And he interpolated: "Is that clear?"

Dictators have been successful in establishing falsehoods as truth, Mr. Roosevelt said at one point, "only because they were able to control the press and radio and to stifle all opposition."

"That is why," he continued, "I cannot bring myself to believe that in a democracy like ours, where the radio and a part of the press remain open to both sides, repetition of deliberate misstatements will ever prevail."

Applause interrupted that sentence when he came to the word "part," and in the interval, Mr. Roosevelt waggled his finger at newspapermen reporting the speech.

Moving into the field of economics the president said:

Nine million more people are employed now than in March, 1933; millions are covered by social security; collective bargaining has been guaranteed, a minimum wage established, a maximum work week fixed, child labor outlawed; average hourly earnings of factory workers are higher than in 1929 and the cost of living is 22 per cent under the 1929 level.

National income has nearly doubled since 1932, he went on, bank failures in the last seven years have not reached the total of any one of the previous ten years, corporations now are showing a profit of $4,000,000,000 a year, against losses of almost that amount in 1932.

"And yet they say," the president asserted, "that this administration prevents profits and stifles business."

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

No matter how insignificant a man may be, he firmly believes that his superiority will some day be recognized.

Diseases — Mild cases of many diseases will be overlooked, but those with such diseases as cancer, active tuberculosis, acute rheumatic fever, osteomyelitis, chronic arthritis, and late syphilis will be rejected. Every man examined for possibly army service will be given a blood test for syphilis.

Teeth — a minimum of 3 chewing teeth above and 3 below, meeting each other, and 3 cutting teeth above and 3 below, also meeting. Teeth which have been or can be easily restored will count, as well as bridgework.

Feet and hands — Some defects are permissible, such as an absent left thumb, loss of two fingers of either hand except where the two are the right index and middle finger, a slight clubfoot, web fingers and toes unless severe, and absence of one or two small toes if the foot otherwise is good.

Inches	Weight	Chest Exhaled
60	105	28 ¼
65	115	30
70	133	31¾
75	153	32½
78	165	33¼

Those are not standard weights and measures, but the minimum for acceptance. From 60 through 66 inches, two additional pounds of weight are required for each additional inch in height. From 67 inches up, four extra pounds are required for each inch.

Splendid Cough Remedy Easily Mixed at Home

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.

To get quick and satisfying relief from coughs due to colds, mix your own remedy at home. Once tried you'll never be without it in your home, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid medicine and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is amazing. You can feel it take hold in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

MILK GOES UP

AMHERST, Mass.—(U P)—With 1940 feed supplies and pastures improved by conservation farming, dairymen could provide every person in the United States with 45 quarts more of milk and cream this year than in 1939, according to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. It is also reported that they could furnish 81 pounds more cheese, butter and ice cream than last year.

TESTS PASSED

TOLEDO — (INS) — Thirty-nine Toledo boys have passed preliminary tests to become army flying cadets as a result of a visit here of a traveling Air Corps examining board.

"STEW" IMPROVED

MELBOURNE, Australia—(U P)—The Commissary department of the Australian army has adopted as its slogan, "Fewer but better stews." They will be scientifically concocted instead of prepared on the "dump in everything" principle of the past. Vegetables will be steamed, to preserve the minerals; carrots and parsnips will be scraped instead of peeled, and potatoes will be cooked in the jackets.

OHIO ALLOCATES $3,787 TO COVER COUNTY RELIEF

Mansfield To Get $1.929 As Richland Needy Aid Unit Receives $1,858.

Allocation of $3,787 to Mansfield and Richland county as part of the state's share of September relief costs was approved today by Charles L. Sherwood, state welfare director.

Dispatches from Columbus said the amount was included in a $759,000 allocation to cities and counties, based on September relief costs totaling $1,807,237, lowest monthly cost since the welfare department assumed relief supervision in January, 1939.

The state's contribution amounted to 41.5 per cent of the total monthly cost.

Sherwood attributed the drop in the relief rolls to improved business conditions caused in part by the national defense program's workings in Ohio

Of the total amount, Mansfield will receive $1,929 while the county will receive $1,858. Relief costs last month totaled $9,154. The city's expense was $3,978 and the county's $1,905.

Allocations to nearby counties and cities included: Holmes, $866; Huron, $1,192; Bucyrus, $424; Galion, $296, and Norwalk $195.

LITTLE BOY

PITTSFIELD, Mass.—(U.P.)—Seven-year-old Harry Radke lugged more than one-third of his weight in tin foil to a collection depot as his contribution to the Shriners hospital for Crippled Children at Springfield. The 34-pound youngster carried 12 pounds of tin foil.

DUCK HUNTERS

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Wild duck and geese will be hunted this year by more than 1,100,000 sportsmen, more than 20,000 of them from Ohio, the interior department's fish and wildlife service predicted. Estimates were made on "duck" stamp purchases for the past two seasons.

In Ohio stamp purchases for the 1938 season (July 1, 1938 to June 30, 1939) were 19,076, and for the 1939 season (July 1, 1939 to June 30, 1940), 20,680.

Piqua Resident Declares Bee Bee's Has Given More Relief Than Anything Else

Flush Poisonous Wastes and Excessive Acids from Clogged Kidneys

The only way our body can clear out acids and poisonous wastes from your blood is through 9 million tiny, delicate kidney tubes or filters, but permits the kidneys to do their work properly and give complete relief from bladder irritations and weakness nightly risings, stiff sore joints and muscles, nervousness and loss of sleep.

The following is what Mr. Ray Lawrence, resident of 436 Wood St, Piqua, Ohio, has to say about the blessed relief Bee Bee's has given him.

"For the past 5 years my body was full of aches and pains caused by kidney disorders. My kidneys were so deranged they caused me to get up at all times of the night and I would get up in the morning feeling as worn out and nervous as though I had never been to bed at all. My joints and muscles pained me so at times I could hardly stand it. I thought I would never find anything to help me but when I got Bee Bee's it took command of my troubles from the start. My kidneys are now acting in a normal manner and they don't get me up at nights like they used to. The sharp pains in my back and stiff sore joints and muscles have disappeared and I feel better than I have in years. I am grateful for what Bee Bee's has done for me and wish to recommend it to everyone suffering with kidney and bladder troubles as I did." Bee Bee's is sold by:

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1940.

Timely suggestion: No matter how sure you are, don't bet any more than you can afford to lose.

What people call "logic" in political campaigns isn't exactly according to the textbooks on that subject.

Realistic Patriotism Advised

SAYS a Christian minister who served in the last war: "What has disturbed me most in so many of these young people's letters to magazines and newspapers is that they look upon patriotism as but the tomtom beating of war mongers. They seem to think they owe their country nothing, but that their country owes them everything.

"You say you want to be realists. The things you and I really cherish are not material success, comfort, security, but imponderable things. Freedom, for example. We are free to meet in this church, in the synagogue across the street, or in the Catholic church a block away. There is no storm trooper standing by to see that what we talk about conforms to party doctrine. We have this freedom because ever since the days of Jeremiah, Socrates, Jesus, the days of Patrick Henry, Garrison and Lincoln, men have been willing to die for freedom.

"Let us be realists! Our defense against those who would destroy this cherished freedom will depend ultimately on our willingness to fight and die for it."

Two State Senators This Time

UNDER a peculiar system of calculating "population excess," the joint senatorial district of which Richland county is a part is to elect two state senators this year, instead of one, as is ordinarily done.

Voters are inclined to pay so little attention to this particular office that they will likely be unimpressed with the importance of making careful selection of senators as well as representatives in the state legislature—which is unfortunate.

Just what advantage it will be to this county, or district, to have two state senators, instead of one, during the next two years, is not entirely clear—the only point seeming to be that an additional salary will be paid, as well as more mileage allowances. This senatorial district includes Richland, Ashland, Lorain and Medina counties.

Farley's Political Philosophy

REARED in the stern school of organization politics, which ties its adherents to "straight" voting under all circumstances, James A. Farley, who recently retired as postmaster general and chairman of the Democratic national committee, now says—as would be expected—"I shall vote the straight Democratic ticket on Nov. 5, and urge the members of my party to do likewise."

In the statement which Mr. Farley issued he told of his thirty-one years of party service, from chairmanship of a town committee to the national chairmanship.

"During the period outlined above," he said, "I have preached party loyalty and pleaded for the success of my party."

Mr. Farley's party loyalty has an adamantine quality that brooks no wavering of allegiance. It bars any thought of independent voting. It demands unquestioning obedience to partisan dictation. It commands "straight" voting from all who hope for political favors—and his distribution of patronage was on this basis.

That has been the political philosophy of genial Jim Farley since young manhood, and—however bitter the present dose may be—he is determined to swallow it heroically.

Studying Under Difficulties

THERE is a university in exile in Switzerland which is different from the one in the United States. Ours is composed of distinguished exiles—scholars and scientists from abroad—who are carrying on their teaching profession in this country. Switzerland's is composed of students from European universities who are interned in the little mountain country.

There are said to be more than 500 Polish and French university students now in 200 internment camps in Switzerland. Beginning October 25 university courses will be brought to them. Swiss professors have volunteered their services, and some foreign professors (themselves interned) will also lecture. Among the latter is Adam Vetulani, dean of the international law faculty of Cracow University. The plan is sponsored by the European Student Assistance Fund and the Y. M. C. A.

This may be studying under difficulties, but it should also be studying of a high and effective type. The young men for whom this opportunity has been prepared must be more aware than students in normal times and places of the value of the lectures they will hear.

Hemispheric Solidarity

THAT hemispheric defense should include Canada along with the republics of the New World is inevitable. It doesn't require anything but the facts of the situation to prove that. The joint defense board of the two countries and other forms of current co-operation have many ramifications, including our own safety, our admiration for our neighbor nation, and our desire to keep that unfortified border safe without bristling forts, guns and soldiers.

Our past relations with Canada have shown how easy it is for two nations with no aggressive designs against each other to get along peacefully together. It is only when one nation wants to dominate another, steal its wealth, or subject its citizens to slavery that the two must arm against each other and finally make war.

Transfer If You Have Moved

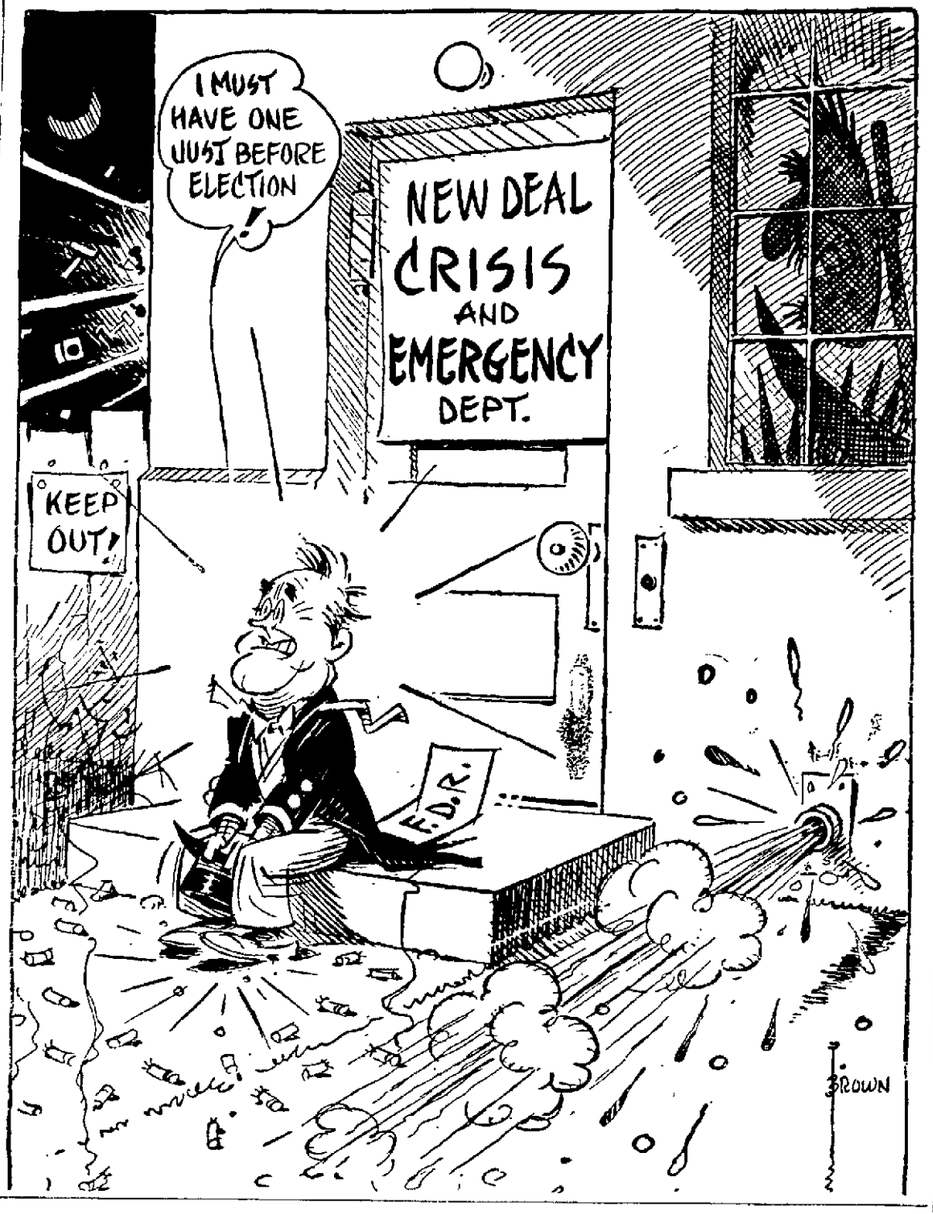
Occasionally they forget that it is necessary for them to transfer their registration into their new voting precinct.

This transfer can be easily made by calling at the office of the board of elections (basement of court house), and should not be neglected by any voters who have moved since last registration days, or who move between now and election day.

Remember—unless you are properly registered you will not be entitled to vote!

DEFENSE PRODUCTION NOT THE ONLY WORRY



Listen World!

Wild Geese Calling

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

IT'S FALL in California. There's a bite in the air these days. The sky is pale—almost white—even at noon. The light lies low and thick, as though the sun had drained its heat and settled to this amber glow. The air is pungent, spiced with all the fallen fragrance of the rainless year.

The highways lined with little stands high with pumpkins, squashes, peppers, strings of "Indian corn" and pails of fresh-cured olives, nuts and small dried figs.

The fields are empty. Just a month ago you felt their busy life heard their deep breathing through the teeming earth. But now they're quiet, resting.

Along the shore, the marshes stretch their tapestry of rust and rose, bright coral, faded green and lime, veined with the netted turquoise of the creeks.

And in the foothills, where the live oaks spread their windswept bronze, the vineyards blaze with scarlet and maroon, purple and jade against the warm, black soil.

Everywhere it's still. The buzz and hum, the swish of tiny wings, the cheerful gabbling of folks at work—it's ended now. And something of that ending chills your heart.

For you, too, it is fall!

You, too, no longer feel the fleeting call of spring, the full, hot pulse of summer. Your fields, that once were full, are empty now. As empty as your dull and tired heart. Perhaps for you the trail is almost at an end—?

The sunset briefly flares, then turns to ash. The night mist coils along the sodden ground. The air smells of dead leaves and rotting roots. You shiver, thinking of your dying years. You think how gay you were once, long ago; how quick and eager and how curious. As wild as some young hawk with new-shaped wings, who feels the ecstacy of endless skies. And now—

The tide is out. The twilight blurs the winding of the empty creeks. The moon swings clear about a burned-out world. Your heart twists with the memory of the moons you've known. But now you're empty as those tideless creeks.

Then suddenly, from out the dark there comes a cry. A call that quickens all the earth and sky. Across the moon, the wild geese wing their honking flight toward home! They call and something in you answers that long call.

Something you'd thought
Was ending with the night
Awakes and listens
To that honking flight!
Why did you think
Your heart was empty, sealed—
As drained of feeling
As some worn-out field?
The wild geese call.
And you are answering!
Your flesh may weary
But your spirit wings
Its deathless way
Of departed things—
The days you knew
Are over—finished, gone.
But you are heading
For another dawn.
Behind you lie the trails
You used to roam.
Ahead there looms
The haven of your home—
And One Who'll say—
"Oh, foolish, frightened child.
"Had you forgotten
"That you, too, are wild?"

Mending Fences

Because younger readers and newcomers to Mansfield may not be familiar with the local origin of the expression, "He's back home mending his fences," the following from Pathfinder magazine is reprinted:

"In May, 1879, John Sherman, one-time secretary of the treasury and brother of the famous Union general who led the march through Georgia, went back to his home town of Mansfield, O., and found many fences on his farm down.

"Coincidentally, there was speculation as to whether he would be a candidate for governor of Ohio. To quiet this talk, he made a short speech in a local hotel. Denying that he had come west "seeking the nomination for governor," he declared: "I came purely on private business—to repair my fences and look after neglected property." Though Sherman meant literally what he said about repairing fences, reporters thought he was speaking figuratively, taking it to mean that he was looking after his "political" fences.

"Since then, as a result, when politicians go home to "mend their fences," they go home to strengthen their position with the voters.

This Is Ohio

FEW spots in Ohio afford such an interesting and natural a vacation land as Marblehead peninsula on Lake Erie. It is outstanding as a fruit growing section, productive in apples, peaches, plums, pears and especially grapes.

Marble Head lighthouse located near the peninsula's tip has guided mariners in one of the most treacherous parts of the Great Lakes for more than 100 years. On the peninsula are some of the world's largest limestone quarries.

Millions For Souvenirs.

Collecting souvenirs is a popular and commendable American hobby. But it is carried to extremes bordering on absolute dishonesty by many enthusiasts, especially where hotel property is concerned. Last year guests of the nation's hostelries helped themselves to $10,000,000 worth of towels, blankets, knicknacks and silver. Mrs. Grace H. Woolley, manager of the national membership division of the American Hotel association, reports.

Just what prompts otherwise upright individuals to let down the bars of honesty when it comes to collecting souvenirs is a problem to "stump the experts." Once this craze for "lifting" mementoes was attributed mainly to college boys on a lark. But time has proved persons of all ages guilty. At scenes of major accidents and famous crimes and at other places of public interest, as well as in hotels, a certain number of respectable citizens can usually be counted on to carry off bits of property that do not belong to them. It is queer quirk in human nature and not one of which we may be proud. — Minneapolis Tribune.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

New Dealers Urge Roosevelt Aid, Campaign Trend Scares 'Em Stiff

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—To say that inner Democratic chiefs are alarmed over the campaign trend in the crucial Middle West is putting it mildly. They are scared stiff.

The Gallup poll only confirmed the bad news, which had been pouring in for days in agitated messages from local campaign leaders. All screeched the same demand: "Get the president to climb off his lofty pedestal, come out west in person and start talking like a candidate for office. If he doesn't it will be just too bad."

Some of the more candid politicos also said the Midwestern campaign organizations were honeycombed with incompetents and stuffed shirts who weren't worth the powder to sink them. Mayor Ed Kelly stormed into the national committee offices in Chicago and ordered a complete housecleaning of the dawdling Speakers' Bureau.

"Get some campaigners," he directed, "who will talk about Roosevelt and principles and not about themselves and how important they are."

Plain-talking Governor John Townsend of Indiana sent word to Washington that Roosevelt alone could provide the spark needed to set the campaign going; that in a two-week speaking tour in a half-dozen states, he had found the people feeling that if their votes were wanted they were worth being wooed.

Above all came the warning that the great mass of voters were profoundly fearful of war. This was rated the overshadowing issue of the campaign, and the reason for the large proportion of undecided voters in every state poll, ranging from 8 to as high as 22 per cent.

Privately, the Democratic leaders view these large doubtful blocs as an undertow that may prove to be a tidal wave of disaster on election day. Four years ago, when Roosevelt landslided the Midwest, the polls revealed no such proportion of doubtful voters.

Aloof FDR.

NOT in years was the inner Democratic command so unanimous on any point as on the urgent need for Roosevelt to take off his coat and get busy. In person, in long distance calls, letters and floods of telegrams they pleaded, argued and demanded that he come west.

But he stuck doggedly to his determination not to travel farther than 12 hours away from Washington. He agreed to make as many political speeches on the air as time could be bought for, but he wouldn't budge from his 12-hour limit.

The pleas for a trip to Chicago and Indianapolis were almost tearful. Mayor Kelly promised a turn-out of a half million people in Chicago, and Governor Townsend pledged 100,000 in Indianapolis any hour of the day or night. The heat is still on for this trip, and Roosevelt may yet decide to make it.

Note — Credit Senator Jimmy Byrnes, smart little South Carolinian, with persuading Senator Sheridan Downey, No. 1 congressional Townsendite, to take the air immediately after Senator Hiram Johnson's pro-Willkie declaration and endorse the third term. It took several weeks of the hardest kind of pleading to bring Downey round to crossing swords with his fellow-Californian, with whom he agrees on isolationism.

Win With Willkie.

ALMOST — but not quite — did President Roosevelt's chauffeur wear a Willkie button when he called at the White House to drive the president to the train.

The president was about to leave for Hyde Park, and chauffeur Montey Snyder was warming up the motor of the big touring car in the White House garage. Then he put on his overcoat ready to go.

A flash of color caught his eye. He looked down at the lapel of his coat. "Win With WILLKIE." He snatched the button off and looked around for the culprit.

He spotted among the onlookers the grinning face of George Klenk, chauffeur to Sumner Welles. No doubt about it. Klenk was the joker.

Labor Peace.

DEFENSE Commissioner Sidney Hillman soon will announce two surprise appointments to his labor advisory board.

They will be John P. Frey, head of the AFL metal trades department, and John Green, president of the CIO's shipbuilding workers' union. The two men will be Hillman's special assistants in the shipbuilding field.

To many people these appointments may seem a routine matter. But to labor circles they are another coup of Hillman's in bringing warring AFL and CIO leaders together.

Frey and Green have long been on opposite sides of the fence. Frey long has been one of the most diehard opponents of the CIO in upper AFL ranks, having helped bounce Hillman and John L. Lewis from the AFL. Only a month ago he vigorously assailed Hillman at a private meeting of the AFL executive council.

Note—To date, Hillman and his labor advisory board have settled peaceably 157 threatened strikes, work stoppages and lockouts affecting over 675,000 workers. An average of 7,000 letters a week are received from rank-and-file union members commending these activities.

Merry-Go-Round.

SENATOR McNARY has had so many requests for campaign speeches that if he accepted them all he would have to make fifteen every day from now until election. . . . From insurance agents in various parts of the country the Securities and Exchange Commission has received copies of letters being sent out by an insurance company official beginning with: "F. D. R. will probably take your insurance business completely away from you if he achieves a third term. Are you going to take this lying down?" . . . Cars parked in the court of the state department are powdered with the dust of burnt paper from the incinerator on the top floor, where secret messages are burned for safety's saks. . . . Department of Agriculture gets along without a secretary these days. Wallace has resigned, and his successor, Claude Wickard, is out making political speeches, too. . . . Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—It's about time somebody stopped cheering Al Jolson long enough to put in a deserved word for another Al—Al Goodman by name. The reason is simple . . . Almost all of Jolson's successes have been augmented by Goodman.

Goodman this year has the top spot in New York among orchestra leaders. Not only is he playing the Jolson show, which is one of the season's two ranking musicals, but he also is playing the Fred Allen radio show, which is one of the two ranking broadcasts on the air.

So that leaves Mr. Al Goodman setting very comfortably and pleasantly during these turbulent times.

Not many people know it but Goodman has been a sort of lucky talisman for Jolson since 1917. That was the year Jolson discovered him in a west coast vaudeville dive and brought him to New York for his opening in "Sinbad." The show was Jolson's first big hit. It made him a star, and after that, when Jolson got ready to go into a new theatrical adventure, he always called in Goodman to handle the musical end of it. As a matter of fact, Jolson is said never to accept a show until Goodman reads script and passes on it first.

* * *

THE bond between these two goes a little deeper than the Broadway tie. If you are interested in checking back you will find a striking similarity between their lives. Both were born in the southern part of Russia . . . Both were the sons of cantors, and both were supposed to follow in their father's footsteps.

But Goodman suddenly switched from voice to the piano, and that made him a band leader. Jolson couldn't get away from clowning, and that made him a star.

Since those uneasy years of their beginnings, Goodman has played many shows on Broadway, and on one occasion the Shuberts actually postponed a big musical comedy, and announced this postponement in paid newspaper ads, because Goodman was too ill to make the premiere. Ordinarily a new leader is shoved into the pit. Goodman is mighty proud of this tribute from the Shuberts. The name of that show was "Music Hath Charms."

* * *

NOT only had he played the big hits, he has also had a hand in the success of rival hits. In 1931 he was actually collecting royalties from ten different productions. That's what you call collecting.

Those who have paid attention to his recent recordings are going around in a three-quarter time mood . . . Goodman has recorded two albums of Strauss waltzes, all honeys. . . . He is tall, stocky, always smiling . . . He is a good talker is even-tempered. He has the reputation of being very gentle with his musicians. . . . He went to work early because he married early and had to earn some sort of living. That was how he became a rehearsal pianist . . . Ziegfeld liked him and called him the "Toscanini of Broadway." He has maestroed almost 200 shows.

A Farmer's Diary

Rainy Day Auction

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

ALL forenoon the clouds thickened rapidly until by noon we saw thick streaks of rain falling on the western hill. The air was damp and very chilly. Soon great flat flakes of snow were coming mixed with the rain. A terrible day for an auction sale, I thought, and my sympathy was with the poor family who would lose for lack of customers. My wife and I decided to go anyway.

The dirt in the long lane up to the house was already slippery. Two cars were parked on the heavy grade beside the house. Nearly time for the sale to start and ten people there. The owner greeted me. "Come up to the house and get warm," he invited. "It'll be a while before the crowd gets here—if there'll be any. It'd be too bad to stand and get wet plumb through," I went with him.

"I've sold this farm," he said. "I've been here a year and didn't make nothin'. I'm a veteran of two wars, and I find farmin' don't go so easy. The man that bought it works away and don't depend for his livin' on the land."

We sat inside by the fire. Cars began to drave up. Closer neighbors walked. Parking space was soon at a premium. Women came, with varicolored parasols. Some carried children up the long lane, leaving their parked cars along the road below. Men came in trucks, in cars, on bicycles. An old man, 84, came up to the kitchen stove to warm himself.

"John, you're gettin' pretty old to be out in weather like this," remarked a friend of his.

"It's better to be out than to be settin' around home," declared John. "But I don't aim to buy much."

"How long have you lived around this neighborhood?" I asked.

"Since I was nine. Most every farm hereabout used to have a sugar grove. These hills was timbered, and only the bottom land cleared. It was a good arrangement."

We heard the voice of the crier begin selling in the basement. The crowd surged out and down. Most of the people stood out in the rain. The humor of the crowd was undampened by the weather.

Small things sold first—chairs, tools, utensils. A boy bought a deep tin pan and wore it for a hat. Men in heavy boots, bought knicknacks and hurried sheepishly with them to their cars. I myself bought a wall lamp for a dime, a peck of walnuts and a small basket of onions.

The grain, the hogs, the sheep, the cows and horses brought more than market prices. The farmer's face lit up at the rare returns on such a day. "I never had a sale before," he said. "I reckon I couldn't ask it to go no better."

One by one the parked cars moved away. A woman carrying a child and a washboard went back down the lane. A friend called out to her and she waved the washboard, smiling.

"It was fun," said my wife, looking at my wet overcoat. But we'd better go home and get on dry clothes right away. It's funny, but a rainy day seems to be a good time for an auction."

ART INSTITUTE OFFERS COURSE IN CAMOUFLAGE

Buffalo School Stresses Way of Hiding Industrial Defense Plants.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Approximately 125 sign painters, commercial artists, stage scenery makers and art instructors are going to school here to learn how industrial plants may be made invisible to enemy eyes.

They are students enrolled by the Buffalo Art Institute in an experimental course in industrial camouflage, arranged in cooperation with War Department engineers. If the course which began here Oct. 3 proves effective, it may be offered by other institutions in key industrial centers of the nation as part of the defense program.

In explaining the new course, Director Harry M. Bell said two objectives were paramount: To train artists as experts in the concealment of industrial plants of all kinds, and to develop plans for the camouflage of important manufacturing plants in the Niagara Frontier.

Sees Plants Vulnerable.

"Looking into the future," he said, "we must consider the possibility of invasion. That invasion would, in all probability, take the form of attack from the air. Our key industrial plants throughout the country, integral cogs in the armament program, are wide open to such attacks.

"The idea behind industrial camouflage is to confuse the attacking bomber, forcing him to circle about the objective and giving defending aircraft an opportunity to attack the invader before he drops his load of destruction."

Bell asserted that reports from abroad indicate that England is using industrial camouflage with significant success in warding off German bombing raids on industrial objectives.

He stressed the particular importance of the Niagara Frontier in the program because of the electro-chemical factories at Niagara Falls and the numerous armament-producing plants in and near Buffalo.

Students will study these industries whose products would be of vital importance in time of war. By the end of the year it is planned to have scale models with camouflage plans for at least eight of them.

Each Plant Different.

"Some sort of installation must be made which breaks up the straight lines and shadows and blends the plant into the background of the surrounding terrain," Bell pointed out. "Each plant will present a special problem and will require individual treatment.

"These camouflage installations must be changed with the seasons of the year to keep in tone with color changes of fields and woodlands. Thus, it becomes an all-year-around task."

Bell said he had assurance from Brig. Gen. John G. Kingman, assistant to the chief of staff, corps of engineers, that the training course was the only one of its kind in the nation and possibly in the world. The army conducts its own school in combat camouflage at Camp Belvoir, Vt., but the local course marks the first venture into the field of industrial concealment.

DRIVER CLEARED

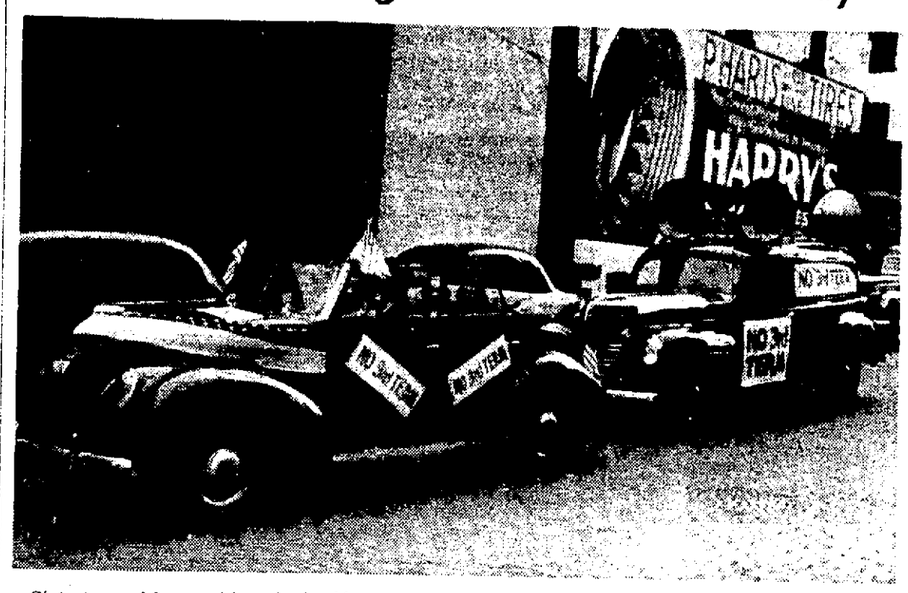
Court Dismisses Him After Hearing Testimony.

A charge of unsafe driving filed against R. B. Kenton, Mansfield, was dismissed in municipal court yesterday afternoon after a technical point of law had kept the case in hearing for several hours.

Vernon Smeltzer, driver of a milk truck, had filed charges against Kenton after the latter's car and the truck collided at South Adams and South Diamond streets in September. Both drivers were injured and at that time it was believed that Kenton may have suffered a slight stroke.

Smeltzer admitted that he was driving "more than 30 miles an hour" in a 25-mile zone, which was a contributing factor in the accident and because this constituted "unlawful use of the highway," Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch dismissed the case. Attorneys H. L. Beam and Frank Culp represented Kenton.

As G. O. P. Staged 'No Third Term' Day



Sixty-two girls, working in shifts, distributed 20,000 "No Third Term" buttons and thousands of stickers in Mansfield yesterday as the city observed "No Third Term" day. Shown above are the automobiles that were used in the campaign. The first one carried girls to their posts throughout the city and the other, equipped with a public address system, followed it to announce the radio address of Wendell L. Willkie last night. The buttons and stickers were handed to pedestrians at downtown intersections and at industrial plants. Mrs. J. T. Lusignan, jr., headed the committee in charge of the button and sticker campaign. Others who assisted were Mrs. F. B. Hout, Mrs. Thornton Moore, and Mrs. Otis Cummins.

Red Cross Plans Wider Training For Army Nurses

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The Red Cross will train 500 women annually in 20 major hospitals to replace 4,000 Red Cross nurses to be called up for active duty with the army.

Under the program, women other than nurses, will take a 100-hour training course of lectures, classroom practice and field work, conducted by a qualified registered nurse. When her training is completed, the aide will be required to serve without pay a minimum of 100 hours annually over a period of four years.

"The corps of volunteers trained in this way will be of invaluable assistance to hospitals whose regular staffs have been diminished by calling up nurses for medical duty," Miss Mary Beard, director of the Red Cross nursing service, said. "They will also be useful to the Red Cross in creating a reservoir of competent and resourceful volunteers in every community in the event of emergencies."

The program will get under way immediately and will be in full swing within a year, Miss Beard estimates.

To Check Constipation Get at Its Cause!

If constipation has you down so you feel heavy, tired and dopey, it's time you did something about it. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat the super-refined food most people eat, the chances are the difficulty is simple—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this common form of constipation is your trouble, eat Kellogg's All-Bran regularly, and drink plenty of water. All-Bran isn't a medicine—it's a crunchy, toasted cereal. And it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

BLAME YOUR LIVER IF—

If your liver doesn't secrete 20 to 30 ounces of bile every day into your intestines—constipation with its headaches, mental dullness and that "half-alive" feeling often result. So you see how important it is to keep bile flowing freely! And what finer aid could one desire than Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, used so successfully for years by Dr. F. M. Edwards for treating his patients for constipation and sluggish liver bile.

Olive Tablets are unsurpassed in effectiveness because they stimulate liver bile to help digest fatty foods, they tone up muscular intestinal action, at the same time help elimination. Being purely vegetable, Olive Tablets are wonderful! Test their supreme goodness TONIGHT! 15¢, 30¢, 60¢. All drugstores.

'YOU HEAR TOO MUCH' IN THIS WAR, DECLARES LONDON WRITER

By ROBERT E. RUNNELLE

LONDON—You hear this war more than you see it

You hear by night the casual hum of a bomber hunting a target, then the groan of the accelerating motors when the pilot makes his run to lay the eggs

You hear the bombs screech and hit and you feel the shake when they explode You hear the splash of shattering glass

You hear the clinking smack of shell splinters and the whoosh of the bursts of bombs ant guns when they are near you

You see by day little clouds of anti-aircraft shells and by night a twinkle like bursting stars, but you hear far more of the irregular drum of gunfire that ranges up and down the scale according to caliber

By day you see the faint ribbons of exhaust vapor—sometimes specks of planes—but day and night you can always hear the machine guns and the wheeling turning and maneuvering of aircraft

By day you see a few score bomb craters smashed buildings glass debris littered streets Night and day you hear hundreds of bombs You see the glow of a few fires but you hear the bells and motors of many hustling fire engines

You see people on stretchers but the scream of frightened women the cry of a baby or the curse of a man does more to your nerves

You see stories of silly tricks played by bombs that killed one fellow and never touched his partner You see communiques about naval and air fighting but you hear thousands of tales—fact and fiction that never see print. Everywhere you go you hear talk, talk talk of war and bombs

It isn't what you see but what you hear that keeps you awake in a shaking bed when the stuff is dropping.

And you get so conscious of noise that you hear sirens when there aren't any sirens and bumps and bangs which you think are guns or bombs, when it's really only somebody slamming a door

You hear too much.

REPORT PETAIN SUMMONED FOR NEW PACT TALK

Swiss See France Employed As Lever To Force Peace On Great Britain.

now in full swing as a result of Chancellor Hitler's conferences with French Vice Premier Pierre Laval and Spanish Generalissimo Francisco Franco, authoritative German quarters asserted today.

They said the fuehrer's newest moves, drawing France and Spain into the Axis camp as non-belligerent partners, have left British Prime Minister Winston Churchill little choice of counter-maneuvers.

About all Churchill can do, as the Germans see it, is to stage "political counter-sallies, reinforced by military threats and gestures against the affected regions."

The Germans made no secret of their belief that the chances of British success in any such maneuvers are microscopically small.

These same German quarters declared that revelation of concrete results of Hitler's talks with Laval and Franco must await later announcements, possibly to be issued upon completion of the reich's present high-powered diplomatic drive.

They said the Axis, however, has scored a tremendous political advantage over England by drawing important regions of the continent "firmly under the wing" of Germany and Italy.

Early authoritative German comments avoided any suggestion that Spain is on the eve of entering the European war but emphasized that, in her capacity as a non-belligerent, Spain is determined to regain possession of Gibraltar, Britain's Mediterranean stronghold.

Official quarters maintained a significant silence regarding Hitler's talk with Laval, indicating that complete crystallization of these negotiations is yet to come. Nevertheless, German quarters termed it a "unique fact" that the leader of the victorious side in war was able to meet a deputy leader of the vanquished side and mutual discuss the situation with him.

Active Alignment Of Spain Hinted

MADRID — (U.P.) — Spain may soon announce its active alignment with Germany and Italy. Neutral diplomatic quarters reported today, as the result of a dramatic conference at Hendaye, on the French-Spanish frontier, between Adolf Hitler and Generalissimo Francisco Franco, chief of the Spanish Nationalist state.

Official announcements of the meeting gave no details. But belief was expressed here that it had been decided upon suddenly and that developments of paramount importance in the war would result soon.

Three conferences in all had been held. At the first Hitler and Franco and their foreign ministers, Joachim Von Ribbentrop and Ramon Serrano Suner, were the principals. At the second Ribbentrop and Serrano Suner held a discussion of their own, the result of which Serrano Suner reported to Franco. The third talk was a general one, at a dinner in Hitler's special train, with Hitler, Franco, Ribbentrop, Serrano Suner and members of the entourages of the German and Spanish leaders present.

Then, late last night, Hitler escorted Franco to the Spaniard's special train and bade him a cordial farewell. As bands played the German and Spanish national anthems, Franco's train left for the Spanish side of the frontier.

Spain Called Natural Ally

BERLIN — (U.P.) — Spain under Gen. Francisco Franco naturally should be allied with the Axis powers and "fighting" Great Britain for her vital interests in the future, it was stated officially today in information to the foreign press.

The comment was made available to the foreign press as newspapers emphasized Adolf Hitler's conference at the Spanish frontier with Franco yesterday and as Nazi spokesmen ridiculed British suggestions that the Fuehrer's conferences with Pierre Laval, vice premier of France, arose from fear of increased British power.

Hitler spoke for Italy as well as Germany in the conference with Franco which was a "sequel" to his conference with Italian premier Benito Mussolini at Brenner Pass, the authoritative National Zeitung said.

Non-Aggression Pact Indicated

MOSCOW — (U.P.) — Diplomatic circles predicted an early conclusion of a Soviet-Japanese non-aggression pact today.

The new Japanese ambassador, Gen. Yoshitsugu Tatekawa, arrived yesterday and will present his credentials tomorrow to President Mikhail I. Kalinin.

It was understood that the groundwork for a non-aggression treaty had been laid by Shigenori Togo, who preceded Tatekawa as ambassador.

Japanese desire for a non-aggression pact was intensified after she joined Germany and Italy in a military alliance. It was reported abroad that Germany had used its influence in Moscow to get her one.

If a non-aggression pact is concluded, it was said, it will not represent a departure from Soviet foreign policy since the Kremlin long has proposed a non-aggression pact with Japan, similar to such pacts with many other countries, such as Germany.

According to diplomatic circles the Soviet-Japanese pact will mark a turning point in Russo-Japanese affairs, which have been characterized by a series of border incidents and even some large-scale military engagements.

Balkan Tension Eased by Hitler

BUDAPEST, Hungary — (U.P.) — Balkan tension was eased today by indications that the diplomatic offensive had shifted to western Europe.

Adolf Hitler's conferences with French Vice Premier Piere Laval and Spanish Leader Francisco Franco were believed here to mean that the Axis powers might strike at the western, rather than the eastern Mediterranean area.

BRITISH WARN FRANCE, SPAIN

"It may well be that contacts of the Axis chiefs with Spanish Foreign Minister Ramon Serrano Suner in Berlin and Rome recently failed to produce developments sufficiently concrete or drastic to satisfy their desires and that consequently it appeared desirable that Hitler depart from his custom of summoning statesmen to his presence and himself undertake a long journey, hoping that blandishments and threats would impel Spain along the Axis path.

"The line of temptation might be based on the idea that if Spain and France took part in Hitler's new order, British resistance might crack, peace might come speedily, and they might enjoy advantages."

Spain's hardships, however, might be immensely aggravated if she compelled Britain to make the blockade absolute. Spain is now permitted to import through the blockade, for example, sufficient petroleum to keep her reserves up to about 200,000 tons. Wheat is allowed to go through. Britons cannot see Hitler solving this problem for Franco.

Even if, as has been rumored, Hitler is attempting to force France to cede French Morocco to Spain and is proposing ultimate restoration of Gibraltar, Britain believes Franco will weigh carefully the economic consequences of letting German troops cross Spain to Gibraltar or granting Germany and Italy naval bases on Spanish soil from which to raid British commerce.

REPORTS PROFIT

The Lamplighters club, an organization for the blind, cleared $67 for its education program from the proceeds of a dance last Saturday night in Germania hall, representatives of the club said today.

The dance, an annual affair, attracted about 250 persons. The funds will be used for purchasing Braille books and materials for use by the blind in making articles.

Roosevelt Air GOP 'Falsehoods'

Before a huge audience in Philadelphia's convention hall, President Roosevelt makes his first major political speech in his campaign for a third term. His address, which was carried over a paid coast to coast radio network, struck mainly at the Republican party's "deliberate falsification of facts."

WILLKIE SCORES FDR PROMISES

Charges President May Forget Them, Send Troops To Fight Abroad.

that pledge made last night by the third-term candidate, based upon the 1940 platform of the Democratic party, is remembered by him longer than he remembered the same pledge that he made with reference to the provisions of the Democratic platform of 1932.

"If he does not remember it longer, then shortly our boys will be on the transports, sailing for some foreign shore."

Willkie repeated that he approved of old age pensions, unemployment insurance, collective bargaining and other social gains, but declared that "if we continue along the road of deficit financing . . . the end will be financial chaos, bankruptcy and inflation which will result in the loss of every social gain as well as the loss of liberty."

Willkie spoke from his campaign train in this town a few miles from Erie, Pa. The 24-minute speech was broadcast over a nationwide NBC network.

Speaking of 1932 promises, he recited planks in the Democratic platform of that year—he pointed out earlier that he voted for Mr. Roosevelt in 1932—said "the New Deal candidate" accepted these promises, and then declared that they were not carried out.

"Now, Mr. Third Term Candidate," he said several times after making these charges, "tell the American people whether Wendell Willkie falsified that part of the record."

Willkie also charged that the president "killed the London economic conference" advocated in the 1932 Democratic platform and "repudiated the program of stabilization which he himself had instructed our delegates to present."

"And, in my judgment, by that act he contributed more to the fall of the democracies and the rise of the dictators than was performed by any single act of any government in the world."

He said he did not recognize some of the "falsifications" Mr. Roosevelt said he made in the campaign. He said he did not recognize the point about Mr. Roosevelt "telephoning" to Hitler before the Munich pact, and pointed out that he, Willkie, had acknowledged previously he had made a mistake.

Mr. Roosevelt, he added, did not telephone—he "telegraphed" Hitler.

The president, Willkie said, was trying to violate a tradition of 150 years, and yet, Willkie added, "offered not one word" in defense of his attempt.

Mr. Roosevelt, the Republican candidate continued, opposed deposit bank insurance — although he pointed out the insurance act as one of the achievements of his administration.

Willkie declared Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) was the man largely responsible for putting into the banking act of 1933 the deposit insurance feature.

In Chicago the other night Willkie said, he put certain questions to Mr. Roosevelt which the president did not answer.

He said the 1932 Democratic platform promised a balanced budget and lower governmental expenditures, but expenditures had risen by billions and no attempt had been made to balance the budget.

"Mr. third term candidate, tell the people if Wendell Willkie falsified that part of the record," Willkie declared.

He turned to other parts of the 1932 platform, said the New Deal administration had not followed its promises and repeated his direct question to Mr. Roosevelt.

"Mr. third term candidate, tell the people if Wendell Willkie falsified that part of the record."

Referring to the president's address last night, he said Mr. Roosevelt said this country would not participate in foreign wars and added he hoped this "pledge was remembered longer" than the third term candidate remembered the promises of 1932.

"If he does not remember longer," Willkie declared, "then I fear our boys will soon be on transports" bound for fighting.

Saying this was a most critical period, he said it was necessary for the country to be united and added:

"I plead with you now to join in this crusade to bring this about in America."

The people had no hope for a united country, he concluded from an administration "founded on broken promises."

Willkie was scheduled to speak from 12 noon (EST) to 12:30 but he was 13 minutes late in getting started and spoke seven minutes beyond the allotted time.

At another point he told the forum audience:

"As I listened over the radio this evening to the glowing report made by the present third term candidate of the prosperous condition of the United States, I could not help wondering how under such circumstances there could be any indispensable man."

Smith Compares FDR with Hitler

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Alfred E. Smith, defeated when a Democratic candidate for president in 1928, made his first speech for Republican Nominee Wendell L. Willkie last night, calling him "a welcome gift to America in her time of crisis."

As Willkie himself made a series of addresses across the river in Manhattan, Smith kept a large crowd in the Booklyn academy of music roaring as he attacked the New Deal administration.

He compared Mr. Roosevelt with Hitler, saying that both had asserted "democracy is safe as long as we have free elections."

CALLS NEW DEAL 'UN-AMERICAN'

Herbert Says It Takes U. S. To Brink of War, Then Puts Men To Work on Munitions.

istration for ignoring the Dies committee's report showing that scores of persons with Communistic leanings are holding federal jobs and other "hundreds of fifth columnists are in key positions in the national defense program."

"We need a housecleaning badly in Washington, and I believe the American people are going to make the change Nov. 5," he said.

"If the New Deal's answer to the unemployment roblem is in scaring the nation about war and giving men jobs in munitions and armament plants, making weapons to destroy human life, it certainly is not taking the American way to solve it," he added.

Comparing the third term issue to a baseball game, Herbert said a team manager "doesn't leave a pitcher who is being batted all over the lot in the game until it's hopelessly lost. He takes him out and puts in a new man who can hold the other side down.

"In this big game, we have Hitler on third base, Mussolini on second, Japan on first, and Stalin coming to bat, so we'd better get Willkie in there to stop the batting spree."

The example of France and England shows that it sometimes pays to change horses in the middle of the stream, Herbert said.

"The French were a great people, but their government was shot full of Fifth columnists and there was no change of horses, so that nation is a defeated one today," he pointed out. "On the other hand," he said, "England had the same situation, but they changed horses, putting in Churchill, and that is the only reason they are holding their own today.

"War had even been declared in England when that country made the change, and it has not regretted it," he added.

When George Washington set the two-term precedent, there was a critical situation facing the nation, but he didn't use that as an excuse to perpetuate himself in office, Herbert asserted.

"In those days, the British and French held possessions north and west of us on our own continent, giving the country more to worry about than we have now," he added.

Predicting that Governor John W. Bricker would be reelected by the "biggest majority of any governor in Ohio history," Herbert compared the Bricker administration with the Davey administration preceding it.

Atty. W. M. Weldon, Mansfield, spoke in behalf of the Republican candidates on the judicial ticket.

Wives of the Republican candidates for county offices introduced their husbands. The meeting was in charge of the Republican women's organization which held a covered dish dinner before the rally. Mrs. Carl Spangler presided during the program.

Three more Republican rallies are scheduled for the remainder of the week in Richland county, two of them for tonight and the other Friday night.

Meetings will be held in the South school building in Jefferson township at 8 p. m. today and at the same time in the Butler Grange hall. Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch of Mansfield and Walter Woodward of Bellville will speak at the Jefferson township meeting.

Congressman J. Harry McGregor, candidate for re-election, will speak at a rally Friday night in the Shelby school auditorium. William Morris of Shelby will be chairman.

Dems Hold Dinner And Dance Tonight

A dinner-dance sponsored by the Young Democrats of Richland county and a ward meeting at the courthouse tonight highlight today's activity on th Democratic campaign front.

Nearly 300 persons are expected to attend the dinner meeting at the Eagles hall for party candidates, their wives and members of the executive committee.

The dinner is scheduled for 6:30 p. m. Dancing and talks by county candidates will follow.

A ward meeting for voters of the Third and south half of the Sixth wards will be held at 7:30 p. m. in the common pleas court room at the courthouse.

Atty. John C. O'Donnell, executive committee chairman; Atty. Marshal Moore, campaign manager; G. A. Baer, central committee chairman, and Sheriff E. P. Long will be the speakers.

Friday night, the party will wind up its campaign work for the week with two rallies. A Fifth ward meeting is scheduled at Newman school and voters in the north half of the Sixth ward will meet at Hedges school.

County candidates will address both meetings.

Last night County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe spoke before a Fourth ward rally at Johns park pavillion.

He cited the achievements of the county administration in paying off the county's indebtedness; stressed the accomplishments of Democratic office-holders in affecting economies through the institution of a pay-as-you-go program.

Candidates were introduced by Atty. Marshall Moore.

More than 200 persons attended the meeting and listened to the president's radio address.

During the afternoon, two teas were given by the Democratic women. Atty. Charles Spreng addressed a group at the home of Mrs. G. W. Marriott, wife of Prosecutor G. W. Marriott, candidate for probate judge. The other group of women met at the home of Mrs. George Hughes. They were addressed by Atty. Moore.

South Boulevards Voters Plan to Oppose Bond Issue

Approximately a dozen South Boulevards residents met last night in the village council hall to map a program opposing the $250,000 school bond issue which will be submitted to Madison township school district voters at the Nov. 5 election.

Members of the group said they favored a school building program, but they said they considered the program as outlined "too ambitious in view of the uncertainty of the times and the added taxes that will be necessary to pay for the national defense program."

They also pointed out that South Boulevards, which will help pay for the school building program, voted a bond issue for a sewer system last year, boosting the district's taxes.

The school bond issue, if approved will finance the construction of new Woodville and Lincoln Heights grade schools and an addition to the Madison township high school.

Court Bars Browder's Testimony on Political Tie-Up

DEMS CHARGED WITH SEEKING REDS' SUPPORT

Attorney Says Communists Approached By Workers For Edward Flynn.

(By International News Service)

ALBANY, N. Y.—On behalf of Earl Browder, Communist presidential candidate now under a passport fraud conviction, the indirect charge was made today that Democratic National Chairman Edward S. Fl, in offered to permit Communist party candidates to remain on the New York state ballot if party members would support President Roosevelt.

Currently a legal battle is being waged wherein the state department of the American Legion seeks to bar all Communists from the ballot. A court ruling yesterday barred a question by Browder's counsel to Browder which asked:

"Did you have a conversation with a representative of a high official of the Democratic party concerning the attitude of the Communist party in this election?"

With the question ruled out, Joseph R. Brodsky, Browder's counsel, today said:

"Mr. Browder telephoned me early yesterday morning. He said he was willing to take the stand in legal proceedings to which he is a party at Catskill, N. Y., and testify about some conversations he had with high Democratic officials concerning the proposal that if he would support the candidates of the Democratic party he'd be sure the Communist party would remain on the New York state ballot.

"Mr. Browder gave me to understand that those who approached him were representatives of Mr. Flynn, although no names were mentioned. I told that to the court at Catskill and we waited until 1 o'clock yesterday for Mr. Browder to arrive. I put him on the stand immediately and tried to ask him about these conversations, but the court barred that line of questioning."

Parents Told Home Foundation for Good Citizenship

The foundation of good citizenship is laid in the home, Miss Oleda Schrottky, New York City, told parents of Girl Scouts last night at Park Avenue Baptist church.

Miss Schrottky dramatic advisor of the National Council of Girl Scouts, addressed two meetings in Mansfield yesterday. She was a guest speaker at a luncheon yesterday noon at the Park Avenue Baptist church, which was attended by 55 members of the Mansfield Council and Girl Scout leaders from surrounding towns. There were representatives from Mt. Vernon, Ashland, Bellville, Fredericktown, Shelby, Bucyrus and Mansfield.

Last night about 175 parents heard Miss Schrottky talk on character building and the responsibility of parents and the home in this work. She dealt with the three basic laws of Girl Scout work, cheerfulness, courtesy and obedience.

The national worker was introduced last night by Mrs. Roger Black, retiring commissioner of the Mansfield council.

Pupils at Senior High to Hold Own 'Election' Oct. 31

Not to be outdone by their elders, pupils of Mansfield Senior high school will go to the polls Oct. 31 to decide their "choice"—Franklin D. Roosevelt of Wendell L. Willkie.

Under the guidance of the social science department of which V. D. Coe is chairman, pupils have set up all necessary political machinery for staging a real election.

Tomorrow is registration day, and in the morning six desks, each in charge of a number of students, will be arranged as registration booths. Each pupil will be required to give his name, home room, and party affiliation.

Making the election as true to form as possible, the various floors will be divided into wards and precincts. Booths will be set up in each of the precincts, fully equipped with challengers and other officials found in regular voting booths.

Voting will be done on the same ballots which the grown-ups will use on Nov. 5. A number of sample ballots have been obtained from election officials for the occasion.

School officials emphasized that "election" will be held solely for purposes of instruction.

HIGHWAYS FOR DEFENSE URGED

Ohio Official Gives Address at Road Builders Meeting at Quebec City.

(By United Press)

QUEBEC CITY Que. — Rapid expansion and modernization of the highway systems of the United States and Canada as a vital defense measure was urged today by H. C. Sours, president of the American Road Builders' association.

Speaking at the 25th annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads association, Sours pointed out that highways, unlike other defense measures, served essential commercial purposes as well.

It has been demonstrated, he said, that the degree of mobility of mechanized units depended on the highways in the field of operations, particularly in the defense of important industrial and shipping centers.

Sours emphasized the need of providing secondary roads for the evacuation of civilians from areas under attack so that evacuation would not interfere with movement of troops and supplies. Sours is director of the Ohio department of highways.

Five sectional meetings were to be held today for presentation of papers and addresses on "The Social Responsibilities of the University."

Some 75 college presidents and more than a hundred teachers and designated alumni representing sister institutions were to participate in ceremonies to celebrate the inauguration and to march in the academic procession prior to the induction tomorrow. A formal maugural dinner will be held at a downtown hotel tonight with Vice President J. Lewis Morill of the university presiding as toastmaster.

Dean John F. TICKET SALES FOR COMMUNITY PLAYERS TOTAL MORE THAN 600

The largest season ticket sale in the history of the Community Players was reported last night when members of the board of governors met at the home of Miss Katharine Hartman, Park avenue west.

The drive ended Tuesday with considerably more than 600 season tickets sold and belated reports are expected to increase this figure to approximately 700. In past years the average sale has been under 400 season tickets.

Impetus to the sale this year is believed by officers to be largely due to the fact that the first production this season will be the all-amateur premiere of the Louis Bromfield-George Hawkins play, "Here Today, Gone Tomorrow."

The sale of season tickets closed Tuesday and no more will be sold this season, according to Mrs. H. H. Scheitler and Mrs. Sherman Glessner, co-chairmen of the campaign. From now on all admission tickets available will be for single shows.

Board members were told that rehearsals for the first play are being held three times a week—Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights at the common pleas court room in the courthouse.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T SEEK THE BREAK

An even three-three division of the six outstanding cards of a suit occurs less than half of the time under ordinary circumstances. It is still less likely when one of the opponents has been bidding some other suit or suits. Then that player probably is short in the unbid suit, his partner having length in it. That is true even when it is clear that a not-vulnerable player has been bidding his suit lengths merely to becloud the issue or to find a sacrifice fit against your powerful cards.

South failed to make his contract because of his playing for an even break in diamonds. After West led the spade 10, he counted up his tricks. Three in spades, two in hearts and seven in the minors would give him enough, as he figured. He was prepared to stand the loss of a trick in clubs if he could bring in four tricks in diamonds.

So South took the opening spade in dummy, then played the clubs cleverly. He read West's failure to lead the suit first bid by his psychic partner, clubs, as indicating West might have the K and would not wish to underunderlead it. So the declarer led the club 9 and played the 8 on it. Sure enough, West took this with the K and then led a second spade, the 6, to the K.

South thereupon took three club tricks and started on diamonds. The K was cashed, then the 8 led to the A. When East failed to follow suit, there was nothing more the declarer could do but rake in one more spade, two hearts and one more diamond. He had to give up a diamond at the end. Better figuring would have counted West for the diamond J and therefore would have dictated use of the A first, then the K. This would have marked the finesse of the 10, with the lead in the right hand to lead for it. By doing that, South would have made his contract.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Oct. 25.

An exciting and lively day, both in private and business affairs, is the augury based on the lunar and mutual transits. New and important projects are under high stimulus for initiative and constructive developments, but these may not be without setbacks, delays or disappointments as well as some financial problems.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the brink of a very lively and challenging year, with much in business as well as private life to test the capacity for control, prudence, calm judgment and restrained tactics.

A child born on this day should have much ability and force of character.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Why, the messenger, I suppose," Philip replied, and Lillian sank back in her chair. But I noticed that she kept her eyes alertly fixed upon her old friend's face.

"He did not ask me to give him my word or exact any oath as to obedience in carrying out his instructions," Mr. Veritzen went on "But he told me coolly that disobedience would mean not only my death and Noel's, but death by torture, and he sketched Mary's future fate if I disobeyed him, in words that would have turned my blood to ice if it already had not been far below the freezing point."

"He said that I was at liberty to go," Noel's father went on, "but that he would know every move of mine until I entered the farmhouse—and afterward."

"And afterward," Lillian echoed thoughtfully. "Now whatever did he mean by that?"

"I don't know," Philip answered soberly, "unless he expected that agent of his to arrive very shortly after I did."

"That's a thought," Lillian said, and then she flashed the oddest look at me, one that said as plainly as words, "I wonder if you're thinking what I am." Then she turned her eyes back to her old friend.

"I take it you haven't the slightest idea of the identity of this expected messenger," she persisted.

Mr. Veritzen stiffened perceptibly, and his eyes showed resentment.

"My dear Lillian!" he said with something of his old flamboyance of manner. "I do not number people among my friends who possibly could be associates of Leslie."

She blew a saucy kiss at him, and grinned impishly.

"Don't be too sure, Phil," she advised, with what I knew was purposeful flippancy. "In these times, anybody could turn out to be an international spy—if you know what that means, 'you're a better man than I am, Gunga Din'."

He smiled reluctantly.

"Upon my honor," he said. "I know of no man among my friends who by any stretch of the imagination I could picture as an agent of Jack Leslie's."

But before the words had fairly left his lips, I saw the infinitesmal start he gave, knew that Lillian had seen it also, and understood with me that some disturbing — though perhaps vague — and unconvincing—doubt of some friend had come to him.

"It really doesn't matter, now, Phil," Lillian said comfortably. "When the messenger presents himself, then you'll know, for it would be stretching Old Man Coincidence clear out of his galluses to have a perfectly innocent friend of yours show up here, and ask for admittance, and then will be time enough to act."

"That's what the Chief said," Philip replied, and then Lillian gave a little start of chagrin so perfectly simulated that I knew the man opposite us would not realize how she purposely had been delaying his story so that she could analyze its components.

"I've been slowing up your story, Phil, with my senseless chatter," she said contritely. "Please pick it up again at the point where Leslie told you that you were at liberty to go."

"He didn't say anything more," Philip answered. "He blew his whistle, and, getting out of the car, turned toward his man and Otto who were walking rapidly toward us. The man stopped by Leslie's car, and Otto came swiftly on to mine. We let Leslie's car pull away first, and then I lost no time in getting to a telephone and asking to speak to the Chief. You know his reaction to that message better than I do," he finished as his eyes turned to mine.

CRIME RETURN TO PARIS SEEN NORMALCY SIGN

Crisis Swindles Lead Racket List of Con Men In French Capital.

PARIS —(INS)— A sure sign that life in Paris is tending toward the near-normal is the increase in crime of various kinds, particularly "crisis-swindles."

The ever-versatile Paris con men have arisen to the occasion with their usual slickness. Almost daily the press carries reports of their exploits. With the Bourse and exchange market closed how many "black Bourses" there may be to meet the demand for dollars no one knows, but the operations of an all-Russian combine, which cost an antique dealer 80,000 good French francs in exchange for a thousand bad American dollars has landed the whole crowd in jail. This is only one of the larger "dollar" swindles currently in vogue.

All of the present school of Paris swindlers show remarkable adaptability. The wine shortage inspired the man who delivered water in properly sealed and certified cases to wine merchants after collecting the cash.

Racketeers have reaped a harvest from distressed families seeking to communicate with or send fool and necessities to refugees.

Several false "policemen" have been arrested while carrying out fake requisitionings. There is the usual traffic in false passes, food and cards, etc. Even the old racket of making the theater queues lucrative, has inspired the ingenuity of idle and not over-scrupulous Parisians.

Although Paris continues generally free of crime compared to is on the upgrade again Demobilized men, setting "accounts" suspended during the war, figure in most of these.

Judge Huston Backs Leave of Absence Proposal.

U. S. Strengthens Philippine Defense With Air Force

PURSUIT PLANE CONTINGENTS GETTING READY

Knox Declares America 'Can Defend Anything'; Ships Purchased By Navy.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The United States, ready to defend "land anywhere under the American flag," made its first move in more than 20 years today to strengthen its fighting forces in the Philippine Islands.

Two full pursuit squadrons of the army air corps—about 160 men and officers each and an undisclosed number of airplanes—were being made ready in Michigan and California to leave for Manila. The first group will leave within a few days; the other within a month.

The army's decision to strengthen Philippine air defenses was announced shortly after Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox told a press conference that "We can defend anything." It also came amidst rapid acquisition by both the army and navy of a large number of transport vessels and naval auxiliarycraft from private steamship lines. These moves caused speculation on whether still further reinforcements for the Far East were being considered.

Earlier yesterday press reports from Tokyo were received here quoting Japanese newspapers and other sources as declaring that Japan would obtain oil supplies "by force, if necessary" from the Dutch East Indies, which are only a few hundred miles southwest of the Philippines. Japanese negotiations to purchase Dutch oil were reported to have broken down.

Officials here and in the Philippines have feared for some time that Japan might consider the Philippines to be within the orbit of its "new order in Asia." Successful Filipino efforts in recent years to obtain independence—now scheduled for 1946—have resulted in less emphasis here on increasing American armed forces in the islands.

Dispatch of the pursuit squadrons is expected to bolster Filipino morale in the face of Japanese expansion in southeastern Asia. Philippine officials here pointed out that that move was the first indication given by the United States and that it planned to defend the islands.

Knox left no doubt yesterday, however, that the United States is ready to defend the Philippines as well as all other American islands in the Pacific such as Guam, Wake, Midway and Samoa.

"We are not indifferent to the security of land anywhere under the American flag," he said.

Sings Spirituals Before Death In Electric Chair

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Imbued with a religious fervor, Eugene Harris, 24, colored, of Alabama, was electrocuted in Ohio penitentiary last night with a smile on his lips.

"Lord have mercy; be with me all the time," he said fervently. "I want to tell everybody how happy I am. God bless all of you."

Harris paid the death penalty for the slaying of Lucius J. Rice, 60, Dayton policeman, on Sept. 30, 1939. At the time, Harris was a fugitive from a murder sentence in Alabama and was wanted for the killing of another Negro in Dayton.

Last night Harris sang Negro spirituals interrupted by repeated professions of Christian faith and his own innocence of killing Rice.

"I'm leaving this evening but on a charge of which I am not guilty," he declared just before he became the 227th person to die in Ohio's electric chair.

Delaware County Husker Wins Shock Title

Imagine the embarrassment of a Mansfield wife who went home the other evening and, discovering that her husband wasn't home, called all the places she thought he might be and after failing to locate him prepared her dinner and ate alone only to find two hours later that her hubby was in bed sleeping. He had come home early and decided to take a nap before dinner. Of course, it called for preparation of another meal.

Having the wives of county candidates introduce their husbands at the G. O. P. rally last night provided a lot of amusement for the crowd. Two of the candidates accused their wives of talking so long in their introductions that the candidates themselves had to make their speeches short. After his wife had given him a good "send-off," James Brownscombe, candidate for county clerk, went to the platform, sighed audibly, and commented, "Whew! I'm glad that's over. I was afraid of what might happen when she took the floor."

W. E. Nussbaum, R. D. 6, Mansfield, today made the claim of being the grower of the largest potato in Richland county this season. Nussbaum, who operates a farm south of Ontario, brought a huge two-pound, eight ounce Michigan potato into The News-Journal offices yesterday. From the looks of the giant vegetable it could feed a family of four, with ease. The potato is now on display in the front window of The News-Journal.

Avery Hand, jr., doesn't see any resemblance between himself and Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., but some one thinks so because he was mistaken for the son of the president in a Columbus hotel last Saturday. After the Ohio-Minnesota game, Hand and another Mansfielder were sitting in the lobby of a hotel. Two men kept staring at him and smiling. Finally one came over and asked Hand for his name. He told the stranger but the latter shook his head smilingly. "You can't fool me," he said. "I know you are Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr." Perhaps lending credence to the likeness was the fact that young Roosevelt had been at Mt. Vernon two nights before.

POLICE HUNT CHECK PASSER

Police today were investigating passing of a bogus check at the B. D. Strong grocery where an unidentified man obtained $7.15 in cash and $1 worth of groceries.

Strong said the man, accompanied by a little girl came to his store, 286 South Diamond street, yesterday and asked to have a small check cashed on a grocery order.

The check, issued on the Richland Trust company, was payable to Dick Schaffer and signed by T. D. Copus. Strong became suspicious after the man left, called the bank and found the check was worthless.

GIVES SAFETY TALK AT SCHOOL

Director of State Division Urges Modernization of Traffic Laws.

Before an audience of more than 100 members of the Parent Teacher council, members of the school associations, and guests, Charles Wendorf, director of safety for the state highway department and for the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers, outlined objectives of the organization in a talk at John Simpson Junior high school. Ray Jenkins, safety chairman for the Mansfield council, introduced the speaker.

"Modernization of the existing outmoded laws regulating traffic," is the most important need in the state," the speaker stated. He explained that the present laws are a major contributing factor in accidents, and that Ohio with eight other states is lagging behind by not having uniform traffic laws.

"Ohio is also the only state that does not have a minimum or maximum age limit for obtaining a drivers' license," Wendorf said.

The three major objectives of the congress are to see that safety is taught in all grade levels in all schools; to cooperate with public officials, civic organizations and other bodies in accident prevention work, and to support state legislature on traffic laws.

Wendorf elaborated these three points. S. K. Jorgensen, violinist and teacher of music, played two selections during the program.

JUNIOR RED CROSS TO START CHECK OF HOME, FARM HAZARDS

Junior Red Cross throughout the county will conduct its annual Home and Farm Accident Prevention survey next week when members will distribute 13,000 self-check lists on hazards around homes and farms.

The Junior Red Cross of the nation has set aside Oct. 28 to Nov. 2, inclusive, for its check. Questionnaires are delivered to the home of every school child and parents are asked to check the lists against all possible hazards around the home.

Harold K. Mansfield, safety supervisor of the Red Cross in Mansfield and the county, said today that the annual Home and Farm Accident Prevention week is a step toward reducing the appalling number of accidents at homes. He said that last year's fatal accidents in homes and on farms was 32,000, only 600 less than those caused by autos, while the number of non-fatal injuries was 4,700,000, or four times the number injured in auto accidents, and that of this number 140.00 were permanently crippled or disabled.

The check lists taken home by children inquire about such hazards as cluttered stairways, broken electric cords, toys with sharp or broken edges, firearms and poisons around the home, dangerous animals, the use of gasoline and dozens of similar questions.

Parents are urged to mark the check list and then to post it in some place in the home where it will be a constant reminder that hazards about the place bring death or injury.

BANG-BOARDS RATTLE TODAY IN OHIO TILT

Ashland Man Finishes 14th In Opening Contest Near Marion.

(By Associated Press)

MARION — Twenty county champion corn huskers compete today for the state title in the rural sports' outstanding corn contest.

To the staccato of corn striking the bang-boards of horse drawn wagons, competitors will move down long rows in a 100-acre field on the Alexander farm, nine miles northwest of here, in a race beginning at 11:40 a. m.

The winners of the standing corn event will be eligible to compete for the national championship at Davenport, Ia.

John Feehan of Henry County, 1939 titlist, will be endeavoring to break the Ohio tradition that champions never repeat in successive years.

The jinx held good yesterday as Floyd Gale, 33, of Ashley, Delaware county, husked 1,530.25 pounds of corn to win first place in the shock corn husking. Last year's winner, Wallace Passett, 23, of Wyandot county, finished fifth, with 1,465.5 pounds.

Second place went to Harold Dunlap, 22, of Allen county with 1,518.5 pounds; third to Harold Oatney, 32, of Fairfield county, 1,492 pounds; and fourth to Wayne Doriot, 23, of Fulton county, 1,484.5.

Other finishers in the shock corn contest, with pounds of corn husked, were:

6—Earl Herner of Huron county, 1,459.5.

Flag Presented School By Legion, Auxiliary Members

A flag 10 by 15 feet, was presented to John Simpson junior high school this morning by McVey Post, American Legion and the Women's Auxiliary.

Commander Earl Saltzgaber of the Post and Mrs. Samuel Harkins, president of the auxiliary, made the presentation in a ceremony at the flag pole.

The 70-foot flag pole at John Simpson probably stands higher than any in the city, although it is five feet shorter than the one in Central park. The one at the school stands on a high bank while the one in the park is on the sidewalk level.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

What Broadway Needs.

Is fewer bright lights and more bright faces. . . . A powder room maid at every night club table for glamor girls who persist in gilding the lily and combing the tresses over the hors d'ouevres. . . . Free hot soup and a sidewalk bonfire for the autograph fans who haunt the pavement in front of 21 all through the winter. . . .

A theater guild contract for Salvatore Dali so he can do the sets for William Saroyan's plays. . . . A few more Janes who sing like Pickens, Winton and Froman . . . Chair seats with cactus covering for table hoppers who sit down without being asked. . .

A sightseeing tour for Manhattanites who have lived in New York all their life but have only explored the east Fifties . . .

* * *

More glamor girls with vitamins, like Sonja Henie and less of the variety who look like Camille in Act three. Asbestos straitjackets for careless escorts who dangle their lighted cigarets close to your minks. . .

New editions of "Daddy" Browning, "Diamond Jim" Brady, Florenz Ziegfeld, Wilson Mizner, Nora Bayes, and Lillian Russell—just to make copy for a columnist. . . .

Some intellectual giant to explain to all of us why those southern belles who have been haunting El Morocco and the Stork for almost a decade keep getting a more pronounced Southern accent as the years roll on. They didn't get it from Col. Perona!

* * *

A magnet to draw the silverware out of the pockets and purses of tourists who frequent the famous eateries on a souvenir hunt . . . A five-cent gardenia . . . A new dance craze to supplant —or at least supplement — the conga vogue . . .

A musical comedy starring W. C. Fields . . . Another silly tune like "Seafood, Mamma" . . . A law against those second run theaters that change the titles of old films so you don't realize you're paying at the box-office to see something you didn't like when it was new . . .

Newspaper hawkers who call off the headlines intelligently . . . A night club that looks like the night clubs in the movies . . . More New Yorkers like George M. Cohan and Jimmy Walker. . .

* * *

More revivals like "Charley's Aunt" — and fewer plays with "messages." There are so many messages now on the front pages! . . . The abolition of Burlesque boulevard . . . A faster train schedule on the subway systems after midnight, so the chorines who live uptown can beat the milkman to the front door.

A wooden post in front of Lindy's for the sidewalk braggers to knock on . . .

More six-day bicycle races and fewer perpetual merry-go-rounds. . . . A new ditty like "Thanks for the Memory," "That Old Feeling," or "These Foolish Things Remind Me of You" . . . A magician who can make bores vanish into thin air.

Rose colored glasses for torch-toting lasses . . . Glamor girls who walk like Zorina, not Stepin Fetchit . . . Newsreels in the powder rooms for girls who get bored with their dates . . . Reverse parachutes for crowds who all want to get out of the theater in that mad rush that follows the final curtain . . .

A Dale Carnegie diploma for Eddie Davis, the Swing Street singing impresario, who never forgets a face, a name, or the town the face and name comes from . . . Another menu-planner like George Rector . . . Another Jimmy Gleason on the stage . . .

Football games on weekdays. . . . Just to be different, a restaurant owner who gives up his eatery and enters the prize ring!

* * *

More hot spots and fewer hot foots . . . A Latin lambasting (One-two-three-KICK!) for Swing Street senors who commit R-son by pronouncing them "Rumber" and "Conger" . . . A lie detecter in the back seat of every taxi, so gullible dolls can see for certain that they're being tossed a hackneyed "line" in the hack . . .

A curb on youngsters who peddle tickets to broadcasts that are free . . . A big awning to cover the Gay White Way when it rains, so the homeless don't get wet . . . An invention to protect orchestra leaders from song pluggers at the entrance to the Brill building. . . .

An animal to replace the pigeon in anecdotes . . . A great artist to paint the pretty chorines . . . An inexpensive version of 21 where the bright young lads who are clever but poor can exchange deathless repartee . . . Rubber walls for the Algonquin Supper club.

* * *

More men with beards. They look so funny! . . . A cleanup of those phoney auction shops which gaily clip out-of-towners (and locals) year after year without running into a policeman . . . A new mystery personality like Garbo . . .

A girl show like the Hollywood or old Paradise on Broadway, for the bald-headed boys . . . A referee for every night club . . .

A traffic cop to handle pedestrian traffic on Broadway . . . A Who's Who record for lads and lassies who change their romances so frequently they have Dan Cupid talking to himself. . . . A few new glamor boys. Those old faces are looking a little tiresome in the midnight boites . . .

A conscience like Jiminy Crickets for some of the bright-light back slappers who were born with silver stillettos between their teeth . . . A blond to take dictation from Tommy Manville. According to a late rumor blonds are suddenly scarce and the poor fellow has had to settle for a brunet!

Chatter Corner

* * *

Passersby watching Osborne Meese getting his haircut in a Third street barber shop. . . . Mrs. Lewis Hartman talking to friends while passing out "No Third Term" buttons at Walnut and Third streets. . . . Caroline Woltmann and Carolyn Wolf talking to Watt Giller at Park avenue west and Walnut street.

* * *

Walter (News-Journal Compositor) Watkins getting a kick out of the fact that his draft number is the same as his telephone number—1022 . . . Mrs. Della Cochran stepping out of her car in front of the library. . . . Miss Edith Martien pausing for a light to change at a Main street intersection.

* * *

Mrs. G. C. Endly, just returned from New York City where she and Catherine Fry spent five days, telling of the "most wonderful" grandchild. They visited her son Herbert, his wife and daughter Sally, who is four years old and has red hair. They saw "The Man Who Came To Dinner" and raved about it.

* * *

L. A. Ott recalling the night when news of the death of President William McKinley reached Mansfield and he tolled the bell on the courthouse clock by lifting a ratchet and letting the "striking weight" run down. . . . Four-months-old Denny Hetler keeping both his mother, Mrs. Marion Hetler, and his aunt, Mrs. John Mabee, busy as they try to get him into a knitted out-door suit. . . . Mrs. Edith Fletcher Jameson discussing skirts and blouses with a clerk in a downtown shop.

* * *

Joan Davey, a high school pretty passing out Willkie buttons on the street corner and looking perkier than Robin Redbreast himself, with a scarlet cap and yellow sheep-skin jacket. . . . Mrs. Paul Burnison nursing a cold and wishing for a rifle through the October hills south of here.

* * *

Grafton Johnson and Patrolman E. D. Mitchell (off duty) pausing at Park avenue west and Walnut street to exchange a few jokes. . . . Ralph Moorhead passing with a cheery hello. . . . Dick Poling, once an Ohio Wesleyan football star, planning to go back this week-end to see his alma mater play Ohio university at Delaware.

CHAPTER XX

"I think you should. I think you've a holiday coming to you, putting in a New Year day like yesterday. But if you'll be in the office a week from today we can settle everything then."

"You weren't going before that?"

"If I was, I'll wait." He said it with so significant and friendly a smile that Jocelyn felt her pulses respond again to some breath-taking emotion.

"Shall I say goodbye to your mother?" she asked. "To Norma?"

"No, because I hope it isn't goodbye. I'll explain to them that you are very considerately clearing the tracks for Sandy, and I'll see you, positively, on Wednesday."

"Wednesday, then."

"They are having such a powwow in there" he said, with an annoyed glance in the direction of his mother's bedroom door, "that I suppose the cooler we keep the whole thing—the less complicated, the better for everyone. It's all worked out very differently from what I thought it would. I wish to goodness I could be more with the kid. I liked the way—it sort of broke me up, the way she came over to me this morning! Lord," he said with a weary sign, "what a mess!"

Silence hung for a moment between them; they looked at each other almost in inquiry. What was not being said? Then they both laughed

"Incidentally," Philip said, ending the pause, "if it interests you, I thought I would just mention that Mrs. Verrinder's kindly plans to marry me and move in here do not seem to appeal to me."

* * *

Jocelyn laughed outright. But afterward, when she was packing her bags, when she was leaving Hill Acres and on her way to train and boat and street car to Sausalito, she did not smile at the memory of this and of other things he had said

Instead they gave her a strange feeling of richness, of warmness at heart. Her last talk with Philip, rather than making her feel cut away from the Fordyce interests, had seemed to draw her nearer to them He was the most important member of the group, after all. He was Norma's official guardian and had the last word in everything that concerned her, no matter how her mother, grandmother, how she herself, and Sandy, and fondly interested friends might argue and plan And he had included Jocelyn in his problem.

"We'll pop her and Sandy into school for a week," he had said, "and see where that gets us" And the pronouns had meant Jocelyn and himself; his expression had left her in no doubt of that.

He felt now that Jocelyn was his adviser and conspirator where Norma was concerned "We can't get along without you," he had said. "I hope it isn't goodbye . . . You've a holiday coming to you" And then at the end those few words about Mrs. Verrinder, mischievously added, with Philip's own careless air of dominating a conversation or a situation, of not caring very much what anyone thought of him or the varied predicaments in which he found himself. It was a hard manner to define; Jocelyn found it infinitely fascinating. There was something generous, definitely male, preeminently sophisticated about it.

Her aunt, meeting her enthusiastically at the side doorway of "Maple Den," observed that she had never seen Jocelyn looking better.

"The change," said Aunt Nell, "has done you good."

"Something," said Jocelyn, joyfully, "has done me good!"

* * *

Jocelyn had often thought that her aunt's way of calming any particular confusing domestic situation, or simplifying any too complicated home program, was to propose fresh confusions and complications, and in some mysterious fashion whose secret was known only to herself, to thereby straighten everything out into pleasantness and peace Therefore it was no particular surprise to her to discover that with a houseful of daughters, babies and sons-in-laws, with wet weather making all out-of-doors one great mud problem, and with Tots burdened with the dual responsibilities of a job in the bank and an approaching wedding, they should have decided on a Sunday picnic.

Nobody who could possibly be included in one ever avoided a picnic with the Partridges. Charles Rossiter and Peter Smith, who had married Jane and Jossy respectively some years earlier, were now ring-leaders in preparation, and Jocelyn noted that even quiet Rusty Livermore who was so soon to assume responsibility for Tots, was showing a dawning enthusiasm for the whole crazy plan.

Various disreputable utensils and familiar burdens gradually were assembled in the laundry, a basket whose contents were covered with a piece of dark green oilcloth, a large blackened coffee pot with a swing handle, long forks, tin cups strung on a cord Dr. Partridge appeared in full picnic regalia: a weather-beaten topee on his gray hair, an old leather jacket buttoned snugly about his neck, high boots into which old jeans had been stuffed On his hands were shabby gauntlets; he buckled a canteen about him, picked up a stout walking stick, and was ready to start.

* * *

The girls wore caps raincoats, old sweaters old plaid skirts. Each member of the expedition carried something, Jocelyn found herself let off easily with the coffee pot, which, with only the coffee grounds sewed into a cheesecloth bag within it, was manageable and light Two of the young men had taken the basket, whose handles had been ingeniously altered by the doctor to swing in balance from a pole, when Bam come out to the side yard to announce to Jocelyn that Kent Dunham was there to see her.

Jocelyn's face flushed brightly as she turned to go into the house, but when she reached the large shabby room that was the parlor she was pale As they met she did not smile, she looked strained and anxious. Kent did not smile. He looked nervous and anxious too, she thought, looking at him in cool, strange detachment, that the romantic appeal of his beauty was all the more marked for that. He was eight years older than Jocelyn, but this morning she felt herself the older. She put down her coffee pot, and he gripped both her hands in his and stood half bending above her, for he was tall, and looking down at her with pain and pleading in his eyes.

"Jocelyn, it's been two weeks! I've not seen you since before Christmas. I had to come! I've been in Portland, you know. I only got down here yesterday, and telephoned the Fordyce house and they said you were here. You're not going to be there any more?"

But he did not wait for an answer. He rushed on, too full of his own misery to stop once he had begun

"All these days," he said, "ever since before Christmas—we had Christmas with Lillian's family—I've been counting the minutes until I could come down again and see you You've got to talk to me, darling, this in my one chance. You're not going out in this rain?"

"It's not raining now," Jocelyn was conscious of feeling sorry for him, He was unhappy, anyone could see that. And he was growing unhappier every minute, for naturally she could not pretend that she was as excited as he. In fact she could not awaken any emotion in her heart.

"But where are you going?"

She indicated the coffee pot. "Picnic"

"In this weather?"

"Well, rain's the best time It's not so hot walking It's fun"

"But we have to talk"

Jocelyn spoke gently, sympathetically. "No, we don't have to talk, Kent We've only to say that we liked each other too much for our own peace of mind for a while, and now it's—it's over"

"Too much for our own peace of mind!" he echoed, angry and aghast

"It's all like a dream," Jocelyn said, in a tone that was like a dream

"Like a dream! You can't talk that way! I've broken up my whole life for you I've told Lillian. Ah, Jocelyn don't be like this! Don't dear You loved me once You're not the kind that changes I've said that to myself a thousand times—that you don't change Won't you give up your picnic and let me take you somewhere to lunch so we can talk?"

"I couldn't let my uncle down," Jocelyn reasoned, dutifully Making excuses to get away from Kent! It all became more and more unreal. She, who had hungered so to see him, to have him telephone, stop in at the office, send her some word or sign that he thought of her, to be wishing that this interview were over, that he would go!

He looked at her a moment, puzzled. Then he said quite gently: "What changed you, Jocelyn?"

"Why—why—" she began stammeringly, and stopped When she spoke it was in a lower tone, and slowly, as if she were formulating her idea for herself as well as for him "Don't things sometimes change that way?" she asked simply. "That afternoon, before Thanksgiving you know, when I went over to Covey's house, I was tired—I was tired of wanting to see you My heart was—just tired, I'd hoped so long, waiting for telephones or for you to come in; I'd wanted you so horribly. And then suddenly, that night over at the cabin, it just—wasn't there There was a blank It had burned itself out, as I suppose it always does if it isn't right."

"How do you mean, 'if it isn't right'?"

"Well, that it wasn't. Not with us. If it can be an engagement and kitchen showers and a wedding and all that, it leads—don't you think so?—to a different kind of feeling. But ours wouldn't have."

'Ours can now" he said firmly "Lillian is considering it. Of course her family doesn't want it They're the sort who hate that kind of thing. But it's only a few weeks of unpleasantness and then we are free And Jocelyn if that meant for you and me spring over there in Covey's cabin, and afterward work together somewhere in some other place that would mean happiness to you, wouldn't it, dear?"

* * *

She looked at him wonderingly, kindly 'But don't you see, Kent, it's—just dropped When you came into the office that day to see me when you said that you had made up your mind to stop it, that this was the end how did you feel? Didn't you feel that the glow—the joy had gone out of it? That we were carrying on a dead affair?"

"No, never. Not for a minute!" he protested She knew that he believed it. "I was thinking only of you," he said, "that I would be in Portland, and that you were too fine to be thinking of me, that some other man had a right to love you since I couldn't"

"And you don't think that now?" she asked simply

"Now that we're talking of divorce, that changes it Unless—is there anyone else?"

"No," Jocelyn said quickly. But her color rushed up.

"Then I am going to get my divorce," he said firmly, "and follow you wherever you are, and win you back again"

"Kent, I do ask you not to do that! You know how it is when a thing stops."

"It will come back I thought it had stopped, too, when I talked to you that first day before Thanksgiving. It hadn't stopped It was just that I was confused, I didn't know how to work it out. But when you came to me that night, Joy —"

"Jocelyn!" shouted a dozen voices somewhere out of sight toward the rear of the house. "Come on! We're starting!"

"I have to go," she said "You wouldn't want to go along? It may be wettish."

"No, I'll not go along When can I see you again?" he asked, shortly, deeply hurt.

"Do you go back to Portland?"

"I have to, of course Tonight"

"How's the work going there?"

"Very well"

"And are you and Lillian—" She stopped, not knowing how to go on

"We're not living together, if that's what you mean I have a brother there, and I'm living with him. He's not married But we keep the surface smooth for her family's sake Her father's a bishop, you know She's staying with her family, and I'm practically living at the office until I get things broken in I see her I was there for Christmas dinner."

"She wants you back, Kent?"

'Does that matter?" he asked fiercely

"Jocelyn!" came an augmented scream from the picnickers.

"I have to go," she said again. There was no other word between them. They exchanged a look that was placating on her part and savage on his. Kent picked up his hat and raincoat and was gone Jocelyn, her heart sick, her pulses throbbing nervously, took her coffee pot and went out to join the others.

* * *

The moment she appeared, an advance guard was off up through the narrow strip of orchard, across the muddy road, and into the meadow that stretched upward toward the long straggling windbreak of eucalyptus trees that staggered across the hill The sun had broken uncertainly through the clouds and shone brilliantly upon wet branches and sodden earth. The air, for the moment, was suffocatingly hot.

When they reached the ridge they stood panting, gasping, looking back in triumph from the heights they had scaled. Clouds were massing again now, a tremor of wind ran over the world, and as they started the downward slope to the ocean a soft warm rain began to fall freely into their faces. But his only raised the spirits of the party to wilder levels They leaped and ran and shouted in the sweet pure envelopment of the rain, and took the downhill miles almost at a run. Presently they could smell and hear the ocean, breath the sweet cleanness of salty air, hear the rush and gurgle of waves among rocks. They took the last half-mile in a brisk ten minutes, flinging themselves and their bundles on the sands, laughing, screaming, chattering like the gulls that flew in disturbed circles above them.

For a while everyone lay panting, or crawled about contented to, mark the wet strand with bits of driftwood, bore tracks for flea races or spread coral seaweed in fan designs on smooth planes of sand. Then suddenly hunger seized everyone at once, and while the men went for firewood, the girls expertly built a support for the grill, got their coffee started, opened up boxes containing an incredible numbers of strings of red sausages and a corresponding number of buns.

The sausages popped and sizzled on a hot grill, the buns were toasted and buttered, mustard was passed to lunchers whose mouths were too full for a "thank you," coffee went in boiling dark streams into the tin cups.

They were halfway through the meal when a man's figure emerged from the eucalyptus at the ranch, scaled the gate, and was seen advancing rapidly toward their party. Up to this time they had had the beach all to themselves. They regarded him with suspicion, dislike and surprise, except Jocelyn, who had a horrble fear that it might be Kent come down to be near her, and sulk and be silent and annoy her uncle, who was rather strict upon the subject of love affairs with married men.

But as he came nearer she saw that it was not Kent. It was Philip Fordyce

OHIO EDUCATORS TO 'EVALUATE' CITY SCHOOLS

12 Leading State Educators To Inspect System Here, Miller Announces.

Mansfield Senior high school figuratively will go under the microscope during the week of Nov. 25 when a committee of 12 leading Ohio educators will inspect and evaluate the school.

Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller said the evaluation, which will be made free, will be "an attempt to set up the characteristics of a good secondary school, determine its effectiveness in terms of its objectives, and means by which a good school can be developed into a better one."

Functions of the departments of the school will be inspected by the committee members and a number of helpers on the basis of standards set up for schools of the same classification, Supt. Miller explained.

The committee's report will be made available later for use by Mansfield school officials in making recommended improvements

Department heads from Ohio State, Kent State, Western Reserve, Toledo and Bowling Green universities will be in charge of the work. Dr. D. H Eikenberry of Ohio State university, will head the committee. Assisting the committee will be F. M Shelton of the state department of education.

"The evaluation should be a big help to us in establishing our points of weakness as well as strength and assisting us in plotting our course for the future," the superintendent said

BOULDER BUYS HOME PROPERTY

Government Plans Auction Sale So Residents Can Stay In Town.

BOULDER, Utah—(U P)—Boulder is an easy-going town.

It is only just now the people have decided to buy the lots they have been living on these many years

Boulder began its existence as the most isolated community in Utah, and when people in Escalante, 35 miles away, heard about it they just packed up and moved in.

Boulder wasn't really a town until 1923 when President Harding declared it a township. The president set up 130 acres of public domain for Boulder.

However—no one ever bothered to have a survey made. The people just lived here.

In 1932 register of the Federal land office in Utah, Eli Taylor suggested that to make it legal the people get together and have the town marked off in lots and pay $10 each for them.

The survey is now made

Soon, A. S. Brown, register of the land office will come down to Boulder to sell the people the lots they have been living on since the town started

It is actually an auction — but nobody is expected to create a real estate uproar Present residents of the land will be given priority on that land

The federal government still doesn't understand Boulder very well, though. Brown's order read that he should proceed to the sale "by rail and Pullman"

But he won't do that

Things just aren't done that way in Boulder In fact it's only just recently that a car could make the trip

The common pack mule was the only means of entrance to Boulder for many years The few passenger automobiles which were brought in had to be dismantled packed in, and reassembled on the inside.

Now CCC enrollees have connected the town with the outside via roadway.

Boulder is about one house wide and 10 miles long The chief industry is livestock.

Relief is non-existent in Boulder. The one relief check received by wrote state relief headquarters that he no longer needs relief.

PREFER SWING

Canadian Soldiers Go For Lively Music Shows.

MONTREAL, (C P)—The soldiers are going their own way in their preferences, Cecil West, assistant production director of the Repertory Theatre of the NBC program Review.

Since last December the Theatre has averaged [illegible] for the troops

"The boys in uniform still like the pretty girls in their shows," Mr West said, "but apart from this, the theatrical set-up as far as the troops are concerned, is a totally different picture to what it was in the last war

Back in those days," he explained, "the London music hall was the pattern and was copied. Old 'tops' with songs along the line of 'Oh It's a Lovely War' That's not the case today. Today swing is the race and the songs have to be based along [illegible] of production found in N Y [illegible]

EVERYONE BUT JURORS DRINKS

CAMDEN, N. J.—(U.P.)—Virtually everybody but the jury got a taste of the "evidence" when the Monongahela Liquor Company, Inc., of Pittsburgh sued an Atlantic City liquor brokers concern in Federal court.

Attorneys and witnesses sampled the contents of a bottle but the jury was allowed only to smell it.

ARMY HOUSING COST SET AT $400 PER MAN

All Cantonment Buildings Included In Estimate of Government.

By W. B. RAGSDALE

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The war department figures it will cost $400 to house each one of its soldiers and provide the buildings and grounds needed to train him and keep him happy.

That is the figure to which the cantonment costs breaks down. It covers the per man cost of not just barrack, but of a station hospital, mess hall, recreation buildings and grounds, administration buildings, warehouses, laundries, refrigerating plants, roads, and, of course, grading a drill field.

It has nothing to do with food. William S. Knudsen of the national defense commission sagely remarked that men in the service eat about the same as they do at home except that if a man is in the army he drinks more coffee and if he is in the navy he eats more catsup.

But in these days, army officers recognize that it takes more to build an army than just feeding men and teaching them how to march and handle a gun. Twenty odd years of working with men in the citizen's military training corps and the reserve officers training corps have given the army a fund of information it did not have in 1917.

And the war department wants an army that not only knows how to handle arms, but has the spirit to handle them well, a spirit that flows from good health and the conviction that it has something worth fighting for.

Gen. George C. Marshall, the chief of staff, puts it this way:

"The war department undertakes full responsibility for the welfare of the army and it is absolutely essential that provision be made for it.

"The whole matter of morale is an extensive one, with many ramifications seemingly far removed from simple, pleasurable athletic diversions.

"Provision is made for initial issues of athletic equipment and reading material, and for the establishment of service clubs and motion picture theaters. Hostesses and librarians are provided for in the division camps. This matter is vital to morale.

"Our army will be an army of citizen soldiers and must be essentially a Democratic institution. In a Democracy such as ours, military discipline is attained through the exercise of leadership by our officers. Our volunteer and selected service men with the colors will quickly realize the necessity for the type of military discipline which is based on leadership and mutual co-operation."

To help commanders in the field plan and develop recreational and welfare facilities, a new morale division is already busy. It is buying athletic equipment, magazines, books and the material for service clubs and movies.

Each regiment will have a post exchange and recreational buildings. Each division will have a service club with hostesses. Each sizeable unit will have a movie. Each company barrack will have a recreation room. Red Cross field directors will be stationed at each camp or cantonment.

The new recruit, capsuled into the army by the drawing in Washington, will pass through a classification system that is likely to follow him the rest of his life.

Eight eminent psychologists have worked out a series of questions that will be fired at the recruit in the reception centers to find out what duties his past experience comes nearer to qualifying him for. His answers will determine his army unit and follow him out into civil life where, again, he may be put into a job according to his abilities.

Start Inspection Of School Buses In Morrow County

Inspection of school buses in Morrow county by highway patrolmen will begin today and continue through Nov. 5, Corp. C. F. Strayer, officer in charge of the Mansfield station, announced today.

Corp. Strayer said that Patrolman D. H. Cole would be in charge of the inspection, which will include a complete check-up of each vehicle. Patrolman Cole has just completed the inspection of Richland county buses.

Checking got underway this morning with the inspection of the six buses of Mt. Gilead school, and the Edison village buses.

Monday, the five Marengo village buses will be inspected at Marengo school at 9 a. m. and the three Sparta village buses at Sparta school at 10:30 a. m.

Tuesday, Cole will check on the eight buses from Johnsville and Bloominggrove districts at the Johnsville school at 9 a. m., and Wednesday nine buses from Cardington and Fulton villages will be looked over at the Cardington school at 9 a. m.

On Nov. 4 the six buses of Chesterville village will be inspected at the Chesterville school at 9 a. m., and Nov. 5 seven buses of Iberia village will be checked at the Iberia school at 9 a. m.

LIGHTNING BOLT FOLLOWS PILOT

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass.—(U.P.)—Even lightning must have a leader to follow in an electrical storm, according to G. D. McCann, Westinghouse electrical expert.

McCann says that a weak, almost invisible, preliminary stroke known as the "pilot" picks its way through the atmosphere at the relatively slow speed of 100 miles a second.

With a path thus cleared, a powerful stroke blasts along the same route at 20,000 miles a second.

THREE DAMAGE SUITS FILED; SEEK $83,500

Personal Injury Claims Made In Actions Brought After Automobile Accidents.

Three damage suits for a total of $83,500 and involving two pedestrian accidents in Mansfield had been filed today in Richland county common pleas court.

Largest of the suits, for $50,000, was filed by Mrs. Caroline Urschel, Mansfield, against Clinton G. Burger, Mansfield.

Mrs. Urschel seeks a judgment for injuries she received March 27, 1939 when she was struck by Burger's car as she crossed South Diamond street at Lincoln avenue. She states in her petition that she was forced to stay in Mansfield General hospital for five weeks and then was confined to her home for 14 months as the result of her injuries.

Mrs. Urschel's husband, Peter Urschel, filed a second action for $31,000 as a result of the same accident. He asks $20,000 damages for Mrs. Urschel's injuries and $11,000 for loss of her services and companionship while she was recovering.

Attys. Beam and Beam represent both plaintiffs in the actions

A suit of $2,500 in behalf of Glendora Henry, 13, of Mansfield, was filed against Hugh and Anna Day of Bucyrus.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Olive M Henry, plaintiff, contends that one of the child's ears was partly torn off and she suffered other injuries last Feb. 25 when she was dragged along the street by Day's car.

The child had left the car and started to walk around in front of it when Day raced the motor, frightening her and causing her to slip on the ice into the car's path, Mrs. Henry said. The girl's coat allegedly caught on the bumper and she was dragged several feet.

Placed on Honor Rolls For Union Rural High School

Three students were placed on the honor roll and a number on the honorable mention list at the Union Rural high school for the first six weeks period, according to a report issued by J. E. McCollough, superintendent, today.

The three placed on the honor roll were Roy Buxton, senior, Frances Clever and Glada Oswalt, freshman.

SEEK FUNDS

One Mill Levy Campaigners Ask Finances for Drive.

Contributions were being sought today by workers on the one mill levy for the purpose of financing promotion and advertising for the campaign.

Roy Vaughn, chairman of the financial group of the Citizens committee, working for passage of the levy Nov. 5, said today that $162 had been subscribed toward a $300 goal.

Letters were sent to 80 Mansfield organizations yesterday asking a contribution to the campaign fund, Vaughn said.

The levy would raise funds through taxation to provide additional money for the fire department, police department, playgrounds, city parks and airport. It requires a 65 per cent vote for passage.

Important Bowl

Only an ordinary glass fish bowl, but this container is of historic importance. Numbers drawn from this bowl will determine the order in which those men who registered for selective service will be called. Judge Howard E. Davis examines the bowl in Philadelphia after removing it from Independence Hall where it has rested since the World war.
